*SGB, Dec.2,1940: Cat Lake, subject to county board approval.
*Lake County Board, Feb.,17,1941: Cat Lake.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940: Hill Lake in Gaz. Meand. Lakes. Cat Lake on F.S. maps and selected as most authentic by joint meeting of Forest Service and State Conservation officers, game wardens, and interested local residents. In shape, lake resembles a sitting cat. Cat seems appropriate, and as Hill is the name of family now living on the lake, the adoption of Hill would not conform to the policy of the U.S.G.B.N.

* SGB, Dec.2,1940: Cross River Lake, subject to approval of county board.

* Lake County Board, Cross River Lake. Feb.17,1941.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. Nigger Lake in Gaz. Meand. Lakes. Cross River Lake on F.S. maps and selected as most authentic at joint meeting of Forest Service and State Conservation officers, game wardens, and local residents. The lake is the source of Cross River, which flows into Lake Superior. At the river mouth is a marker commemorating the cross erected by Father Baraga in thanks for his safe crossing of Superior in a canoe during a storm in 1846. Cross River Lake has been in common use for the past 10 or 12 years. There is little support for Nigger.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. Round Lake on F.S. maps and in Gaz.Meand.Lakes. Doyle Lake on Minn.State Fish and Game Dept.map,1924, showing streams tributary to Lake Superior. Both names have some local use. Doyle Lake is for Doyle's Camp in early logging days. Round is duplicated many times, and the adoption of Doyle will reduce this duplication.

Comments

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940: USGB at one time approved Beaver Creek for entire stream, but failed to define its course. Beaver Creek not recognized locally. F.S. and co.maps agree on East Branch Beaver River and that name is in common use locally. The names Beaver Bay and Beaver River date back to the early development of the North Shore country. Change recommended so that names on maps will conform to common local usage. It is realized that USBGN is not favorably inclined toward the repetition of names on various branches of streams, but these two names appear to be firmly entrenched

Comments

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. Both Bass and Gerund have had some use, but neither is well known. Origin and meaning of Gerund could not be determined locally. There is some evidence that the word is derived from the Latin "gerere" meaning to bear or carry. The common definition of the word gerund in Webster would indicate that it has no significance when applied as a lake name. Gerund is not duplicated, and its adoption would avoid further use of Bass, which is overworked.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. Northeast Lake in Gaz. Meand. Lakes. Hazel Lake on F.S. maps and selected as most authentic at joint meeting of Forest Service and State Conservation officers, game wardens, and interested local residents. Locally Hazel is used exclusively. This lake is one of a chain -- Beth, Ella, Grace, Phoebe, Hazel, and Polly, which were named by the original G. L.O. surveyor. It is said that the lakes were named for relatives of the surveyor. The name Hazel has become firmly entrenched, and as one of the chain of names should be retained.

Upham, 146: Sawteeth Mountains. In voyaging along the n. shore of Lake Superior, the highland in Cook County within one or two or three miles back from the shore is seen as a succession of serrate hills and low mountains, the peaks being generally about two miles apart for distances of many miles. The visible crest line thus presents a remarkable profile, resembling the teeth of an immense saw. Between Temperance River and Grand Marais, through nearly thirty miles, a somewhat regular series of these sharp outlines on the verge of the interior plateau has received the name of Sawteeth Mountains.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor Feb.1,1940. Lost Lake in Gaz.Meandered Lakes. Sphagnum Lake on F.S.maps and selected as most commonly used name at joint meeting of Forest Service and State Conservation officers, game wardens and interested local persons. Sphagnum originated from the fact that the lake is located in a wet sphagnum moss swamp. Sphagnum is the spelling given by Webster. It is appropriate, in good local use, and its adoption will help to eliminate the use of Lost, too often duplicated.

Comments

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. USGB at one time approved Beaver Creek for entire stream, but failed to define its course. Beaver Creek not recognized locally. Forest Service and co. maps agree on West Branch Beaver River, and that name is in common use locally. The names Beaver Bay and Beaver River date back to the early development of the North Shore country. Change recommended so that name on maps will conform to common local usage. It is realized that USBGN is not favorably inclined toward the repetition of names on various branches of streams, but these two names appear to be firmly entrenched.

McCauley Map, Lake 11: West Branch Beaver River.

Recommended by Superior Forest Supervisor, Feb.1,1940. Pine Lake in Gaz. Meand. Lakes. Wood Lake On 1938 Superior Forest Map. Wood selected as most authentic by Forest Service officials, state conservation officers, game wardens, and interested local residents at a joint meeting at Ely, Sept.14,1936. The lake is the nesting place of wood ducks. Wood has been accepted locally for the past 10 or 12 years There are other Pine Lakes in the vicinity. As far as can be determined, Wood is not duplicated in the immediate vicinity.

Description & Name Origin "Some writers have supposed that the 'R. des Grosillers' of Franquelin's map in 1688 was named for Groseilliers, marking his route of departure from Lake Superior to go to Hudson bay; but it seems better to consider this the Gooseberry river of the present map, translated from its Indian and French names, so designated for its abundance of wild gooseberries. . . . . The map of Franquelin was apparently drafted for this part mainly according to information from Du Luth, who had recently traveled much west and north of Lake Superior."

EXACT SITE T 64 R 6W

TWP AREA & DIMENS "It had an area of about 1000 sq. miles at the time of its greatest extent and an elevation of about 1700 feet above the sea"

GEN LOC

Description & Name Origin When the continental ice-sheet of the Glacial period was finally melting away from this area, its northwardly receding border held temporarily an ice-dammed lake in the basin of Kawishiwi river, with outflow southward and westward. This ancient lake, first described by Arthur H. Elftman an assistant of the Minnesota Geological Survey, was named in his honor by Prof. N.H. Winchell in the Bulletin of the Geological Society of America (vol. XII, 1901, p. 125).

GEN LOC bounds Lake County on the southeast

Description & Name Origin Lake County.....received its name from its being bounded on the southeast by Lake Superior, which the Ojibways call "Kitchigumi, meaning great water," as spelled by Gilfillan, or "Gitche Gumee, the Big-Sea-Water," of Longfellow in the "Song of Hiawatha." Its very early French name, Lac Superieur, used by Marquette, Hennepin, and Franquelin, denotes its situation as the highest in the series of five great lakes tributary to the St. Lawrence river, which are named collectively the Laurentian lakes. This largest body of fresh water in the world has a mean level 602 feet above the sea, and a maximum depth of 1,026 feet.

Description & Name Origin The lakes on the north side of this county were surveyed and mapped, with full details of their shores and islands, by David Thompson in 1822-3, for determination of the course of the international boundary, following a canoe route that had been long used by the fur traders. An excellent description of this route, from Grand Portage to the Lake of the Woods, was published in 1801 by Sir Alexander Mackenzie in his "General History of the Fur Trade from Canada to the Northwest."

Information of origins and meanings of the geographic names was gathered from John P. Paulson, county auditor, and A. E. Holliday, assistant superintendent of the Duluth and Iron Range railroad, each being interviewed during a visit at Two Harbors, the county seat, in August, 1916.

MOUTH

Description & Name Origin 14 mi. N.E. of Two Harbors. - Indian name by Gilfillan. The French name Groseilliers appears on maps even 250 years ago. Groseilliers was a brother-in-law of Radisson, the two toured this great lake in 1660. Groseilliers' name means in english Gooseberry. Reuben Gold Thwaites, head of the Wisconsin Historical Collections, on page 215 Vol. XIX says, "The name for this small river in Lake County, Minn. Not far above Encampment Island, has had a curious history. It is first marked upon Coronelli's Map of 1688 as Riviere des Groseilliers, being probably so named in honor of the early fur-trader and explorer, MEDARD CHOUART, SIEUR DE GROSEILLIERS, who with his confrere, Radisson was as far as we know the first white man in this region. The name persists on the maps throughout the 18th Century but apparently was corrupted by the voyageurs into Riviere aux Groseilles; so, when Bayfield surveyed Lake Superior in 1823, he gave to it the English translation of the French word, Gooseberry River. Such it remains to the present."

Culkin believes it is a translation of the French explorer's name.

Description & Name Origin Was named by the Ojibway Indians, Manitou, meaning, Spirit. This river has a remarkably deep and narrow gorge, which is spanned by a steel bridge.

(over) (over)

Continuation

A short distance upstream from this bridge the river makes a right angle turn and plunges over a massive basalt bed with a total fall of nearly 100 ft. Between the bridge and the lake, a distance of only ½ mile, three more falls with a series of rapids give a total drop of several hundred feet. The last fall plunges the water directly into a cove of Lake Superior.

TWP AREA & DIMENS

GEN LOC Most eastern of the north county series. Is 1,387 feet above sea. STATUS Wer. Mead

Name Origin & Remarks: Is for the Ojibway name, noted by Gilfillan, "Nigig-bimikawed sagaiigun, the lake where the otter make tracks, from four tracks of an otter on the rocks by the side of the lake, as if he had jumped four times there." More probably, however, the name alludes to peculiar slides where otters took amusement by sliding into the water from a bank of snow or rock or mud, as described in Herrick's "Mammals of Minn., 129-135."

Name Origin & Remarks: • Has several branches or arms. Name translation from Mokomani sagaiigun of the Ojibways. Prof. N.H. Winchell gives their reason for this name, derived from an adjoining rock formation, "a blue-black, fine-grained siliceous rock, approaching flint in hardness and compactness, with conchoidal fracture and sharp edges; sometimes it is nearly black. It is this sharp-edged rock that gave name to Knife Lake. It is only local, or in beds, or sometimes in ridges."

Name Origin & Remarks: • On the northern limit of the geographic range of this tree. Mackenzie used the French name of the basswood, Lac Bois Blanc (white wood), adding, "but I think improperly so called, as the natives name it the Lake Pascau Minac, or Dry Berries." This Ojibway name was spelled Bassimenan by Prof. N.H. Winchell and Bassemenani by Gilfillan, whose translation of it is "Dried blueberry lake." Although the first syllable may have suggested the English name, Basswood, which is a translation from that given by the early French voyageurs, the Indians had no reference to the tree, but only to their gathering and drying berries here for winter use.

• See Sag. This is evidently only part of Basswood, See map.

GEN LOC Description of a flight between Ely and Sawbill Lake

Description & Name Origin At one time -- the moment when island-dotted Lake Insula was just beneath -- I had looked out both sides of the cabin and counted 100 lakes that I could see. At 100 I stopped counting. There were still more lakes stretching on the horizon, the evergreen wilderness stretching uninterrupted with them.

Mr. (Bob) Watts (president of Wilderness Outfitters at Ely) had noticed my concern with the chain upon chain of lakes. He explained that glaciers had dug them. He produced a map almost as thickly blue with water as an ocean bed and showed me that the known lakes were more numerous than names could be found for. At several spots on the map, chains of lakes were designated as merely Lake One, Lake Two and Lake Three. At other places the name of a lake would be repeated for the one next to it. The first would be Hope lake, for instance, and the next South Hope lake.

(from article by Fletcher Wilson, one of a series on Minnesota as a vacation land.)
