China is about numbers and my work is about communicating the importance and need for sustainable practices. I was lucky enough to expand my body of work consisting of one-of-a-kind pieces with a complementary capsule collection in conjunction with Stellar Works, a cool, young emerging brand making its mark in China as a quality manufacturer of furniture. Whilst visiting their facilities in Shanghai we came across a selection of leftover inventory from past productions. The development of a small run of products was the organic result of marrying their capabilities and materials with my Flat Pack design, which also represents an efficient and effective way to make, sell and ship product. The end result is a sleek collection of chairs and one table which could be developed further.
