CLEAN PILLOW

This product is the first in a line that will examine the concept of luxury also as an expression of holistic well-being. Luxury is still about exclusivity, quality and beauty, but in a world of manufactured abundance and simultaneously dwindling natural resources, it is also about being respectful of materials and getting rid of unwanted extras. Clean Pillow is a resting 'pod', or working station, for your computer. It is made of luxurious recovered fur, recycled reconditioned leather, repurposed wood and lined with a fabric that protects the user from radiation emitted from one's laptop. I am not a scientist but common sense tells me that any form of radiation is also, by definition, a form of energy, and was struck when a fertility doctor told me that she advised patients to refrain from using laptops by placing them directly near the body. It is exactly this kind of situation which clearly exemplifies how the future of luxury will be dictated, not only by the traditional tenets, but by new ones, mostly based on the avoidance of unwanted 'extras' that our consumeristic society, and industry, provides us with. And respect for any material, whether a new comer or recycled, is paramount. Cleanliness is next to Godliness.
