Per Square Foot is an event that directly addresses rebuilding costs for homeowners and homebuilders affected by the recent wildfires. The event is hosted at SCI-Arc in partnership with Builders FirstSource, the nation's largest supplier of structural building products and services to the home construction market.

There will be a moderated panel with builders, architects, and materials experts who will share the truth of what it should cost to rebuild. There will also be numerous industry companies and non-profits who will share new products, discuss impacts of building code, and offer options for rebuilding.

The event is open to the public.
