STRATEGY SIDEBAR

Consistency is Key

Consistency is really the key to classroom management.

Commit to teaching content, behavior, and procedures and consistency is sure to follow. Check your consistency in the following areas:

- Holding our ground without over-explaining
- Staying focused on the topic even as students try to change it
- Teaching and re-teaching procedures
- Bell-to-Bell instruction
- Enforcing and following through with consequences
- Talking with parents
- Welcoming and encouraging students

Spotlight

This week's spotlight goes to Mr. Robert Turner. Mr. Turner has the gift of making things relevant to students and really having them step in to the footsteps of the past. He did a great lesson on understanding the hardship of the great depression by having students analyze whether or not they could live with the inflation of costs and deflation of wages. If you need help turning a lesson into real-world experience, have a chat with Mr. Turner!!
