This is the first and historic coin issued by Silver Shield, memorializing the corrupt debt and debt paradigm created by elites, banks, and government. The obverse has a matte finish, accentuating the old cracks of the current paradigm. The words "In Debt and Debt They Trust" refers to the banks and military industrial complex. The five arrows are an icon of the Rothschild banking dynasty's dominion. The chains of debt replace the innocent Rothchild family ribbon. The deathly skull is inspired by Nathan Rothchild's world domion since Waterloo, and the signature top hat reeks of the elitism that controls this paradigm. The reverse highlights forty seven silver bullets speaking to investing in silver to escape the elite's paradigm, and representing the atomic weight of silver. The silver shield with the message "Listen to All, Follow None" is a salute to the independently free. And finally the wording "A Conscious Solution to Collectivist Problems" refers to independent minds who take up their silver bullet and silver shield.

This coin is based on the Trivium of Grammar (Observation), Logic and Rhetoric. Grammar (Observation) the rational and unemotional observation of symbols, situations, or facts, and allows truth to be observed. Logic is the processing of the current set of facts and logically thinking about what will be the logical consequences of, or the best course of action in light of the observation. Rhetoric is the ability to tell either yourself or others of your observation and your line of thinking. The Trivium is the three step thought process that breaks the slave thought and allows the individual to become their highest and best self. The design uses the "Flower of Life", and "Seed of Life" sacred geometric patterns to graphically symbolize the Trivium which is essential to free the individual from the collective control. The words "Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness" are shown on the bottom. Going forward, this Trivium symbol is the basis of the reverse side of most Silver shield coins.

Notes

- The 2D vector design was a quick design while sculptor Heidi Wastweet worked on freedom Girl and Slave Queen coins.
- Error coin; during minting of the 2014 New Year coin, a very small amount were minted with the new Silver Shield crest (having the Trivium) on the obverse, and the Trivium coin's obverse on the reverse.
- Trivium version 2 coin produced having Heidi Wastweet's sculpt.

The Slave Queen is the mock of the most popular reverse on silver coins of the Queen of England. Her family has invaded 9 out of 10 countries on earth. In her crown is a poppy symbolizing the Opium wars against China, a Rothschild crest symbolizing the banking dynasty that funds her empire, and the All Seeing Eye the elite love to use on their slaves. "Keep Calm and Slave On" finished the design as a reference to the World War II British war propoganda.

Chris Duane wanted to update the Peace Dollar and asked sculptor Heidi Wastweet to design Freedom Girl, a modern classic the shows the seductiveness of Freedom. This coin is created on the basis of the Peace Dollar, which is regarded as one of the most beautiful coins in the world. The Peace Dollar was struck by the US mint after World War One, commemorating the "War to End All Wars" - 34 year old sculptor Anthony de Francisci used his wife Mary Teresa as a model for the coin.

The Warbird challenges the design of the American Eagle Silver Coin. The obverse has the all-seeing eye symbolizes the elite watching us with the idea they are all-seeing and therefore all powerful. The Bald Eagle is replaced by the Predator Drone. The feathers of the Warbird are replaced by the absolutely incredible, blood splatter, sculpting that famed Sculptress Heidi Wastweert created. The Shield represents that patriotic propoganda this Death and Debt Empire hides behind. Below the shield, is the true goal of our empire spreading the chains of debt to the willing, and the arrows of death to the unwilling.

Notes:

Love is the most powerful force out there and is the ultimate opposite consciousness solution to the Debt and Death paradigm. The three hearts represents the past, present, and future love that passes through time. The pregnancy is the middle of the immediate past and future generations of direct consciousness existence. Sculptor Heidi Wastweet's attention to detail from the heart the hands and the wedding ring made for an incredible sculpt. Heidi finishes off this design with her initials HW on the hip of the skirt. I told her that was the best place for the initials, because she is such a hip artist to be able to do chaotic, hard and powerful sculpts like Warbird, but then switch gears to sculpt loving, soft and the power of Love.

The Silver Bullet Silver Shield Cannabis is expertly sculpted by our famed sculptress Heidi Westweet to almost look like a Canadian Maple Leaf coin except for some major changes. First I replaced Canada with Cannabis since the spelling is so similar and then used the outline of the Maple Leaf but made it look like we re-structed it with a Cannabis leaf over it. We also changed the French saying of Argent Pur which means Pure Silver with Legaliser Nature which is French for Legalize Nature. After all it is insane to think we would make something that has so many obvious benefits away from humanity. The Silver Bullet Silver Shield Cannabis is finished off with Heidi's initials HW on the bottom of the leaf.

With the exceptional sculpting of Heidi Westweet, this modern beauty is an update of the Virginia State Seal. It shows virtue with spear in hand, and foot prostrate on the form of tyranny, who's crown lays nearby. This modern and powerful update of that design shows Lady Freedom with her spear of truth powerfully striding over the defeated tyrant of debt and debt with his elitest tophat. Her silver shield shows the Trivium which is necessary for the individual to break the collectivist spell. She is finished off with the initials "HW" of Heidi Westweet on her gauntlet. The debt and death figure makes it's return to the Silver Shield series since its launch on the very first coin in 2012. Instead of his wicked smile, he lies defeated holding the chains of debt and the arrows of death, lying in piles of worthless paper money.

Alexander the Great's Argyraspides soldier is the Silver Shield image that tells of the harsh reality of labor valued in silver through history. The word Argyraspides literally translates to the words "Silver Shield". Since slaves were never paid, the hardest workers for the least amount of pay through history were soldiers, taking their lives into battle, and dealing with the worst conditions. Argyraspides were Alexander the Great's best class of warriors. Most were over 60 years old but they were feared and revered due to battle experience. They carried silver as their pay into battle. This coin is the culmination of name, message, meaning, value, and wealth behind the Silver Shield. Use it to help share the story of how to live consciously different and also provide wealth into shaping the next paradigm built off of resonating abundance.

Notes:

- 1 Minted for Chris Duane's private collection. Some have subsequently been released to members.
- 2 In Argyraspides time, the standard pay was 1/10 of an ounce for a day's hard labor, reflecting how undervalued silver is today.

The Peace On Earth coin expresses a message that is simple and well balanced. The star above mirrors the star Jesus brings to earth. This is what the hope and joy of Christmas should be about, and by focusing on the things you can control and the things you love. The special "Consumerism" version of this coin expresses the duality of what Christmas has become, being also a consumeristic paradise of buying things we don't need with money we don't have. This is just the way the managers of the Debt and Debt Paradigm want it.

Irreverently called the most badass coin in the world, this coin is an inspiration from the Gadsden Flag depicting a rattlesnake coiled and ready to strike, and the words "Don't Tread On Me". The flag is named after American general and statesman Christopher Gadsden, who designed it in 1775 during the American Revolution. It was also used by the Continental Marines as an early motto flag, along with the Moultrie Flag. In modern times, the Gadsden flag is often associated with political movements such as libertarianism and the American Tea Party.

The Standing Freedom silver round accentuates the message of Freedom begun with Freedom Girl and continued with the Sic Semper Tyrannis design. In this round Freedom is featured standing, much like she was in the Sic Semper Tyrannis round with flowing hair, a spear and the Trivium shield. Engraved at the top of the design is the simple word "Freedom". A simple enough word, small and unassuming but with a meaning that defies the tyranny of the oppressor. This round carries a powerful message and a beautiful design.

Notes:

- COA is 2013 but the round has the Trivium found on 2014 and later coins. All went to Chris Duane's private stock with some subsequently released to members.
- Comes with "Red Border" COA.

The first release of 2014 is the New Year's round having the 2013 SBSS reverse and the new 2014 SSG reverse. The new 2014 Silver Shield Reverse shows the evolution of the original Silver Bullet Silver Shield series with its original 47 bullets and shield to the later introduction of the trivium replacing that SBSS Reverse. Now the 2014 Silver Shield fully embraces the Trivium design that made its first appearance in 2012 and has made its way into several subsequent releases like Freedom Girl and Sic Semper Tyrannis. The 47 bullets remain as symbol of the atomic number of silver. The overall clean design shows the maturity of the brand and message. The first release of the new Silver Shield Series will be also the last of the Silver Bullet Silver Shield series with the New Years coin. This unique double Reverse design not only marks the transition of years, but also the two brands.

The most historically significant and powerful silver story in the world is the fact that Jesus Christ was betrayed for 30 1/2 ounce silver Shekels, a significant amount of wealth at that time. This example powerfully demonstrates how undervalued silver is today on an historical basis. The Jesus Shekel is the first 1/2 ounce round issued by Silver Shield.

From Chris Duane: This Silver Shield coin is a chance to commemorate and support one of my favorite truth activists in the world Ken O'Keefe. Ken is by far one of the most eloquent and powerful advocates of truth. This former Marine has renounced his citizenship in 2000 prior to 9/11. Acted as a human shield in the second Gulf War. Physically detained 3 Israeli Commandos that raided his Gaza Relief flotilla. And has been on every major television station preaching truth. He currently has a program on Press TV and The People's Voice. Knowing what kind of personal toll this type of action takes on a man and his family, I could think of no better way to show support and pay homage to a man that has fought for Truth Justice and Peace than to create a coin for him.

The Slave Uncle round deals with the idea that the power hungry want you, not in the patriotic sacrificing sense that was foremost in the minds of those who answered the call, but rather as something that can be controlled, manipulated and used to further their own ends. This powerful design captures the idea that should have been so great, but has been corrupted, and "skeletonized" to serve their own ends, at the barrel of the gun that Uncle Sam now holds. The obverse features a captivating design by Heidi Wastweet that features the iconic Uncle Sam poster, exposed for its true purpose. Uncle Sam has his iconic top hat with stars and looks the same, even the words "I Want You" are the same. But something is different. Uncle Sam's face is skeletonized and in his left hand is a gun. The pose is more threatening, almost tyrannical. This design unmasks a powerful symbol.

Liberty or Death has been the battle cry of revolutions for centuries, one of the most notable being the American Revolution. This round captures the idea with a striking visual reminiscent of the old pirate flag. The interesting point is not that people must become pirates, but that the elite already are. The 13 stars and the colonial hat and muskets are to remind us that liberty is within our grasp, all we have to do is take it. The obverse features a skull and crossed muskets, very much like the old pirate flags. The skull features a hat typical of the colonial era no doubt to remind of days gone past. The background displays 13 stars in a circular pattern, much like the American Revolutionary flags of old. The words "Liberty or Death" are featured prominently and express an idea "as old as the hills". This design is both a reminder of what we had and a warning of what it has become.

The Come and Take It silver round is a merger of two previous designs in the Silver Shield series, AG-47 and Freedom Girl. This design carries a powerful message. It speaks of the willingness of people to stand up for what they believe in and to back up what they say. It echoes the words of the 2nd Amendment to the US Constitution and tells the world that freedom does not instigate violence, but if violence is necessary to preserve it then so be it. The obverse features the popular Freedom Girl from earlier designs in the series but she is different. This time she is wearing a hat and carrying a gun. Her face is still tranquil, but resolute. She is prepared, but certainly not eager. In the top right are the words "Come and Take It", much like the words from the AG-47 design.

The first Competition Is A Sin round is inspired by the Rothschild central bank control of industry in Europe, and its influence on John D. Rockefeller and J.P. Morgan in America to crash the market in 1907, leading to the creation of the Federal Reserve Central Bank in America. Through the monetary policies of this privately owned entity, American industry has been controlled ever since.

The second Spreading Debt and Death round tackles a reality familiar to any student of history. The power of war is not the destruction it causes or the armies it raises but rather the debt it creates. By pushing and creating the conditions for one, banksters are able to create and control through the other. The Spreading Debt and Death Bankster round captures this idea perfectly.

The third Too Big To Fail round captures the clarion song used to justify bank bailouts during the crash of 2007-2008. "Too Big to Fail" are four words that some claim have killed not only capitalism, but also serve to allow the big banks to simply steal money. With these four simple words justification is given to backstop all the losses of the major banks. So why would it be surprising to see one run off with a bag of ill-gotten gains?

The fourth and final End of the Line round captures the swan song of the bankster's heyday. Before now they were able to do whatever they liked but nothing lasts forever and people have had enough. As evidenced by the currency notes that are being ignored as they fall away, even all of their riches can't save them. Pitchforks and torches illustrate the anger of the masses towards these crooked tycoons. In "Competition is a Sin" they began to establish monopolies, the first stage of dominance in their plan. With "Spreading Debt and Death" they grew their fiendish model for enslaving people for generations and spread debt often through death and wars. With the words "Too Big to Fail" they attempted to cop out of the damage their recklessness caused the world when they inevitably went too far. And finally they have been taught the lesson they always forget, "On a long enough timeline the survival rate drops to zero." Meaning of course that no one can get away with it forever.

The 1 oz Den of Thieves Silver Bar is the first bar shaped design in the Silver Shield collection. The obverse features a symmetrical view of the facade of the Federal Reserve building. It is interesting that the design is so symmetrical even though the institution is predicated on an imbalance in the monetary system. This one building is the centre of the US economic structure and even its very name is misleading. It is a private institution that has shareholders, member banks and all the trappings of a bank, but a power reserved constitutionally to Congress. On the bottom are the words "Not Federal * No Reserves", signifying its private ownership and lack of tangible wealth. The reverse features three overlapping circles, each with hands in them depicting different manual labours. Two hands in the top circle are clasped in a handshake, typifying friendship ("realfriends"). The bottom right circle portrays a hand and a wrench epitomizing skills ("real skills"). The last circle features a hand with a sapling to portray tangible wealth ("real wealth"). The words "Silver Shield Friends Skills Wealth" are engraved above and the words "1 Troy Ounce 999 Pure Silver" are engraved below.

This round expresses the disenchantment many feel about Barack Obama's presidency, and depicts what may be the true legacy of the 2009 Nobel Peace Prize winner. The seven sins are ObamaCare, federal debt, immigration, drone warfare, surveillance, executive orders and finally, fiddling as the American empire burns. The obverse of this round depicts a skeletonized Obama with arms outstretched and money carelessly falling from his hand. The words "Yes I Can" are at the top of the round, along with surveillance cameras and a drone. The bottom features a caution sign with a family fleeing for their lives.

This round exposes the terrible truth that trusting those in power is a path to sorrow. The sad fate of the Native Americans who trusted the government of the settlers will be ours if, like them, we are blindly lead, instead of forming what is around us. Broken and despondent, the once majestic leader traipses through the cold snow, oblivious to the people around him, his great confidence crushed by the harsh betrayal. The caring mother, a symbol not only of nature, but nurturing in its purest form, struggles through the cold, focused only on the immediate needs of her child. Lost and despondent, their fate serves as a warning, not only to vigilance, but to affect the change you need to see. The obverse features artwork by Heidi Wastweet that is not only evocative and highly charged, but succinct and clear. With only two people and a few words, the entire mood and warning are clear. Not only is blind trust dangerous, but it affects everyone, regardless of their power, as typified by the Native Chief, and their selfless love as embodied by the forlorn mother. The scene is reminiscent of the "Trail of Tears" and other tragic journeys of the dispossessed after government betrayal. The snow is a reminder of the harsh world that selfishness and greed expose everyone to. The caveat, "Never Trust Government" is not a conspiratorial cry, but a cautionary warning that "All that is necessary for evil to triumph is that good men do nothing."

Joy to the World celebrates Christmas as it was originally intended to be, a celebration of joy at the birth of Jesus, and the completion of that great family that shaped the world since then. The innocence of the infant Jesus who would one day redeem mankind, and the love, true and utterly selfless, of his parents. This design reminds of us of that most powerful message. The obverse depicts a smiling infant Jesus in the loving embrace of his parents on the day of his birth. His surroundings were humble, but the importance of that moment is celebrated every year and expressed perfectly in the phrase "Joy to the World". He brought joy to a world full of sadness and darkness. This isn't only a message of what He brought, but a command to do likewise. The very spirit of this annual celebration was joy long before the commercialization of the holiday season. Mary and Joseph's faces are clearly full of joy and love, and their cloaks serve to remind us that not only was Jesus born in a lowly stable, but also in the cold of night. That cold serves as a reminder, that even though we are to be joyful, it will not be easy.

An inspiring message that appeared on early American coins, and that many believe can be attributed to George Washington.

This is the second release of the Silver Shield "bankster" micro mintage series entitled the Pyramid of Power that graphically shows how humanity is controlled by the criminal elite. Each round portrays an aspect of this all encompassing control. This second round shows that, while most people recognize that school indoctrinates individuals, many remain blind to the religious collectivists that would have you guilty before you were born and sacrifice yourself at their feet.

This is the third release of the Silver Shield "bankster" micro mintage series entitled the Pyramid of Power that graphically shows how humanity is controlled by the criminal elite. Each round portrays an aspect of this all encompassing control. It is a fact that without proper nutritional calories humans don't function to their highest and best selves. What better way to keep humanity down than by overdosing them on cheap, empty calories to make them slow, dumb and weak. Make no mistake, the criminal elite like Henry Kissinger view food as a weapon to control the population of humanity. Food shortages for foreign policy cause opportunities for internationalist policies to be enforced on once independent states. But here at home there is an even more devious war being waged against us. Expensive organic food where a bag of organic spinach costs more than a Big Mac. Then there are the chemicals that not only harm us but are addictive. Finally, there is the godless scourge of GMO foods that will alter the course of nature.

The Trivium Girls is the latest embodiment of the idea that we can all free ourselves from the debt and death paradigm. The Trivium is the basis for all individuals to free themselves of collective manipulation or toxic thoughts that hold them back from their destiny. The basis for freeing your mind is the Trivium of Grammar (Observation), Logic and Rhetoric. Lady Grammar, on the left, listens to all and follows none as she searches for truth. Grammar (Observation) is the rational and unemotional observation of symbols, situations or facts allows truth to be observed. Lady Logic, in the middle, uses her mind to process this information that is to free her from the mental and physical shackles. Logic is processing the current set of facts and logically thinking about what will be the logical consequences of, or the best course of action in light of the observation. Lady Rhetoric, on the right, is totally free and heralds a new consciousness to the world, free of fear and ignorance. Rhetoric is the ability to tell either yourself or others of your observation and your line of thinking.

The 2015 Silver Shield Year of the Sheep is the first release in the Silver Shield Lunar series. This unique product fits perfectly with the ethos of the Silver Shield collection. The obverse features two ravenous wolves feasting upon a downed sheep. A single sheep dog is howling a warning in hopes of awakening the rest of the ignorant, naive and docile sheep before it is too late. The wolves are baring their fangs and looking directly at us, daring us to try and avoid becoming their prey. The wolves symbolize the evil men who prey upon the unaware in our society.

Merica: The term has come to be used to sum up all of the stereotypes of a modern consumer society captured by the military-industrial complex. Protect your savings from the Debt and Death paradigm in a memorable fashion! The obverse of this round features an image of a man riding an eagle who bears a suspicious resemblance to a famous, over-the-top 1980's wrestler. He has a pentagram on his chest, a traditional symbol of military power and war. His left hand holds an American flag with a dollar sign finial representing the almighty dollar above all. His right hand is holding a huge rifle from which he has just fired a round. In a true representation of Merica, he is thoughtlessly riding a bald eagle with a mushroom cloud forming in the background, no doubt after bringing some "evil doers" to justice. The finishing touch is the "M" in Merica representing the fast food giants who are destroying our health in the pursuit of profits.

Many in the Western world today are questioning the way in which the modern police force has evolved. From an institution that offered protection, security and the feeling that all members of society would be treated justly by them, many citizens now question what the ultimate goal of the police in our society is, and whom they actually serve. This is not a new question, and was addressed by Juvenal 2000 years ago with his famous phrase "Quis custodiet ipsos custodes?" This literally translates as "Who will guard the guards themselves", but can be expressed today as "Who will police the police"? This subject troubled both Socrates and Plato philosophically as they debated how those in authority can be held to account for their actions. The reverse features three skeletonized police officers in full riot gear with bats at the ready. The skeleton represents the dehumanization of today's police officers as an element of state control. "Police State" is emblazoned on their chest in case any are unaware of the direction we are heading. The traditional Police motto of "To protect and serve" has been adapted to today with the words "To Brutalize and Exploit" found at the top of the round

Celebrate the journey of a young boy fighting imaginary dragons as he grows into the Argyraspides warrior king! In an age of transgender, political correctness, societal decline and indoctrinated slaves trading their freedom for "safety", A Hero Is Born pays tribute to the boy hero in all men. This immature warrior spirit helps boys break from their parents and brave new worlds. It is the force within that overcomes fear and boldly takes a stand in the corrupt world. The obverse of this coin features a young boy wearing a shield and helmet and carrying a sword. He is about to storm a castle protected by a dragon, and his face shows no fear.

This beautiful proof-like round, Merry Consumerism, harkens back to the infancy of consumerism in post-WW2 America. Large American manufacturers were fearful that after the glut of war spending, that their factories would shut down. They employed the likes of Madison Avenue advertisers and the nephew of Sigmund Freud, Edward Bernays, to spur consumer demand. Edward Bernays was the father of product placement, celebrity spokesmen, modern advertising and media manipulation. Edward Bernays knew that people were truly motivated to purchase products from irrational behaviors and used psychology to get people to buy things that they did not need. For example, he linked rebellion and cigarettes to get women to smoke even though logic would dictate that smoking is a harmful addiction. Merry Consumerism mocks the consumerism that has run amok in America and destroyed a once high holy day. The proud father figure arrogantly endorses his family's debt slavery with his "Slave" Credit Card. The "Sex Sells" mother figure ignorantly passes down more "stuff" to her children. And the spoiled child is never satisfied while shackled with debt. All while celebrating Merry Consumerism under the ever-green money tree.

This unique Silver Shield Group micromintage is the first of the year. It has a BU Pieces of Eight on the obverse and a 2016 Proof on the reverse. This makes a very interesting piece to carry and share the story of silver through the ages.

Released in time for valentine's Day, this was another departure from the hardcore political truth that comes naturally from Chris Duane. Certainly one that will stick out of the collection in the future.

Notes:

There likely is no other coin in history that has exposed the Hegelian Dialectic of modern American politics like our Olisculpt last week. Now we will go even further than that with our "x-ray/They Live" V2. You will first notice the hands are different than the V1 Olisculpt. Now they flash the Pyramid of Power hand sign representing the masonic/illuminati secretive, hierarchical power. On the armbands you will see the true nature of both parties the desired Communism of the Democrats and the desired Fascism of the Republicans. Finally, we replaced the 5 pointed stars with the Seal of Solomon Hexagram that truly controls American Politics.

The third (V3) version of this coin was inspired by the thought that Oligarchy V2 is like the X-ray truth of Oligarchy V1, therefore this double obverse.

The first part of the 6 Slave Queens starts with the fact that no nation on earth has been spreading more debt and death than the British Empire. The simple fact is that the British Empire has invaded 9 out of the 10 countries that is almost 200 countries! And that is not including multiple invasions of the same country like the United States like the War of 1812 when they burned down the White House. All of this was at the hands of the Royal family, war mongers, slavers, drug dealers and yet people to this day still hold respect for them. What is worse they buy silver with Queen Elizabeth II on it. The 6 Slave Queen series seeks to expose this scourge of humanity by showing their true face to humanity. Only then will the consciousness change on the royals and we can start to become truly free.

The first of the 6 Slave Queens is called Royal Invader. Regia Incursio De Mundi translates into Royal Invader of the World. IX ex X stands for 9 out of 10.
