Something Africa Taxidermy was started by Jan and Debbie Vermaak in 2020 – right in the midst of COVID-19. It goes without saying that there were those who thought they were fools to start up a business in those trying times, but they clearly didn't know Debbie and Jan – who saw COVID and associated lockdowns in South Africa as an opportunity rather than a challenge. So, they used this quiet time to get their taxidermy studio set up and source quality staff. By the time lockdowns were eased, they were ready to start taking in some work and by the end of 2020 they had taken in 467 trophies from hunters.

Today, three years later, Something Africa Taxidermy has more than 1170 clients on their books, processed 2600 trophies for 2022 and had taken in more than 3300 trophies from hunters over the Globe! Their philosophy is to grow their business with their clients and gradually employ more staff as the need arises. This allows them to perform quality work in a reasonable timeframe.

Here's some work from Something Africa Taxidermy:
