Theological Questions

Last week's question: Does the Diocese of Arlington send any priests to work as missionaries in foreign countries?

Beginning in 1991, the Diocese of Arlington has sent priests to a remote mountainous region of the Dominican Republic, on the border of Haiti.

There are currently two priests from our diocese serving there: Father Jason Weber and Father Stephen McGraw. They staff two parishes in the Diocese of San Juan de la Maguana, located six hours from Santo Domingo: San Francisco de Asís in Bánica; and San José in Pedro Santa-na.

Even though the population of the Dominican Republic is almost entirely Catholic, and has been since the time of Christopher Columbus, the country suffers from extreme poverty, which has made it difficult to cultivate vocations to the priesthood. They must, for now, rely on priests and lay volunteers from other countries to support the local clergy. The Diocese of San Juan de la Maguana only has 13 "home-grown" priests, so Bishop Grullón is dependent on outside missionaries to staff some of the parishes.

New Question:

Do any priests from the Diocese of Arlington serve as chaplains in the Archdiocese of the Military Services?
See next week's bulletin for the answer.

Please call Laurel in the Parish Office at 703-817-1770 with any questions.

Though no stipend is ever required to have your fathers, grandfathers and/or godfathers enrolled in our Novena, any gift you may wish to make is always appreciated.
