Theological Questions

Last week's question: What is "a cappella" music?

This is singing without instrumental accompaniment. (Literally, in Italian, for "in the manner of the chapel", or "as sung in chapel"). Ancient Christian liturgical music, like Jewish singing in the Temple and the Synagogue, was usually unaccompanied by any instrumental music. This has always been a kind of norm for religious singing, although the practice of accompanying, supporting, or augmenting the human voice with musical instrumentation has become more common in the past five centuries, at least in the West.

One may notice the prevalence of a cappella chanting or singing in Islam and in many other non-Christian religions. The exclusive use of the unaided human voice is seen in Byzantine, Greek and Russian, and other Eastern Christian churches. There are relatively modern, "a cappella" choral compositions for the Russian Orthodox Divine Liturgy by such great composers as Pyotr Tchaikovsky, Nikolai Rimsky-Korsakov and Sergei Rachmaninov. Likewise, the Amish and the Mennonites retain the practice of a cappella singing from their origins in Switzerland and Germany in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries.

A remarkably talented a cappella ensemble called the "Suspicious Cheese Lords" is based in the Washington, DC, area. They sing Renaissance and Baroque liturgical polyphony. There are also many secular compositions and styles of a cappella music, including pieces composed for glee clubs and "barbershop quartets". Some well-known contemporary musical groups that sing a cappella have included NSync, Boyz II Men, Rockapella, Pentatonix, Straight No Chaser, and Sweet Honey in the Rock. Bobby McFerrin has made a lifetime career out of using the unaccompanied voice. His hit song, "Don't Worry, Be Happy" was composed entirely of his own voice. He founded Voicestra, a "voice orchestra" of twelve voices, that created a wide range of experimental music.

New Question: What is a cantata?

See next week's bulletin for the answer.

Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults (RCIA) Classes Begins September 17

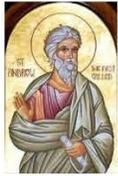

Beginning this Monday, September 17, and continuing until the Easter Vigil Mass, a series of weekly instructional classes in the Catholic Faith will be held at St. Andrews. Baptized non-Catholics and those who are unbaptized are welcome to attend these classes to learn more about the faith. There is no obligation or pressure to join the Church at any time.

You, someone in your family, or a friend may be interested in knowing and understanding better what we as Catholics believe and how we strive to live out our faith on a daily basis. This is a great opportunity to join with others in spending an hour each week learning about the Catholic Faith and helping each other in your faith journey.

Adult Bible Study - Begins this week

A four-week study of the encyclical Humanae Vitae entitled "Celebrating Humanae Vitae" will be held on Wednesday evenings at 7:15 p.m. beginning September 19 in Monsignor Hannan Hall.

Released in 1968 by the fearless Pope Paul VI, Humanae Vitae was immediately controversial, even though it reaffirmed constant Church teaching. The 31 paragraphs within concern the sanctity of marriage and of human life itself, but today many Catholics ignore this outright in favor of convenience. This study will help us see how much happier marriages and families would be if they simply trusted the words of Christ and his bride, the Church. For registration information please contact Russell Rowzie at 703-930-7610 or email at RRowzie@TrimarkCorporation.com.
