Butterfield Table Desk

The architects at the renowned New York firm, Robert A.M. Stern, designed this table desk based on this preference for work surfaces.The top is both concave and convex shaped with canted corners and a fancy, fluted apron. The leather top is surrounded by a Rosewood, quarter-cut border with black Maple inlay lines on the edges. Gold tooling on the leather is standard. There are eight pentagon-shaped legs that taper and terminate in satin brass feet. Rosewood veneer and Mahogany solids. Also available as a dining table (41-018).
