

The Field & HEMF Emotional Signatures

The Human Electromagnetic Field is many things. It is the seat of the ego in the HES and it acts as a bridge between the subtle world of the Sacred Anatomy and the EMF world of the bio layer and the energy it produces around itself we call the Human Electromagnetic Field.

The HEMF it the seat of excess chi in the structure and has a subtle vibration that can be felt physically. As the container of extra chi it is able to collect and hold discreet signatures that are related to and produced by the frustrations and stresses of everyday life.

While not exclusive to the HEMF, these signatures have a different effect on the whole structure in this location. Electromagnetically charged, emotionally based, signatures stored in the HEMF respond more intensely than signatures do in any other part of the structure. Your ego and personality can be affected by unnoticed negative signatures. They hold and reflect a broad range of subtle distresses and irritations.

The HEMF also acts as a receptacle that can hold historical emotional content as old reflective signatures. This would be emotions experienced during this physical lifetime, not karmic or reflecting past life events. Historic signatures, which are signatures from earlier experiences in the current life hovering in the r-layers of the HEMF will read as current emotions. These life-history signatures can escalate emotional experiences more rapidly and more intensely than normal.

Upbeat positive signatures like happiness, joy, ecstasy, and excitement also have a powerful impact on all other emotional events. All of these types of emotional signatures held in the structure establish themselves like an aroma in the HEMF.

It's fascinating to realize your mood is utterly reflective of the underlying subtle anatomy reactions to life and the signatures that have shaped these historic emotional experiences.

The subtle anatomy exists to implement the soul's purpose in the life. All these emotionally charged signatures reflect the effectiveness of that goal. They may or may not be profound emotions as they stand alone, but when they combine their influence is felt intimately by the HEMF as a motivation that shapes the reaction and climate of the personality.

Signatures like: grumpy, cranky, irritated, impatient, paranoid, judgmental, self-indulgent, overwhelmed as a state of being, overloaded, ignored, feeling sorry for yourself, and so on, are the kind found in the HEMF. A signature like this may be based in personality tendencies instead of a specific upset or problem and actually represent a conglomerate of energies.

The layering of signature upon related and vibrationally connected signature produce a strong reaction in the actions and behaviors of the personality. They essentially become the emotional driver that creates personality traits; storing the historical emotional content within the HEMF as HEMF Emotional Signatures. The combining of several energies creating a distinct energetic then collect into a signature related exclusively to this lifetime and the circumstances of this life. In the HEMF these emotional signatures are driven by the emotional content held in the Field.

The advent of a signature rising in the psyche to create a trait and the subsequent presence of it in the HEMF will not escalate to a state of a wound or a trauma. This is because these signatures are based in an ego reaction and have formed the habitual reactive view point or stance of the personality. A mood producing signature can act like debris that freezes the ability of the personality to move into spaciousness. To resist relaxing into a happy state is another signature that can act as a driver of the evolution of a personality trait of pessimism and doubt. The flip side is of course, signatures that can be good and helpful. They can feel comforting and create a sense of well-being that is beneficial to mood and subtly supportive for the personality as it is influenced by much more than hormones, biological chemicals, and behavioral training.

Always remember the HEMF is a reflective system. It shines out like a radiant Sun the knowledge of deeply personal awareness while the personal and ego collect experiences as signatures and cultivates them into an identity. The HEMF holds and expresses the energies and impulses surrounding it that originate in the Layers and Blended Energies Systems. The bioenergetic influences of these systems on the physical body all stimulate the HEMF constantly which produces lived results as conclusions the self-identified persona makes in life. Mood arises out of the influence of the bio, emotional, primal and mental layers and their accompanying chakras and is then cultivated in the corresponding reflective layers and chakras of the HEMF. A functioning disposition is then shaped by the influence of both subtle and manifest energies as they are related to events and experiences.

This mixing and blending of influences forms the character, the style of relating, and crafts the general condition of the psyche. Weeding out a negative influence can shift not just the mood but the effectiveness of the personality and how it functions. The SAEM focus here is on supporting the HEMF to release that which is unnecessary. Some signatures are necessary and in fact helpful for personal development.

All SAEM works to reveal in many different ways the true self. This piece more than many others addresses issues confronted in daily living that cause personal difficulty and pain because “this is just how I respond” to pain and trauma.
