Emotional Access Points

(NEW ANATOMY- HEMF—Layers Collaboration)

What?

There are Emotional Access Points Located in the current emotion strata in the Layers System. They are overlaid by the emotion r-layer and r-strata of the HEMF which aligns to these points to give the r-layer greater use of emotional content. This gives the persona access to deeper emotions and a more universal understanding of what those emotions mean to them. Understanding of emotions without contemplation, this is a felt sense knowingness and an essential part of experiencing an emotional life.

The emotional layer has access to a larger bandwidth of emotional wisdom, function and purposeful action that is quite different from the more immediate experience of emotion the HEMF. The HEMF is reactive and deals exclusively with the experiential present moment feeling of emotion. Both experience emotion in the present tense and emotion is always that- present and immediate. But the way the emotional layer holds emotion in the present emotion strata includes sensation, history, and historical wisdom the HES has gleaned over lifetimes. Still in the present the expression of emotional maturity is based in this emotional content.

Why?

The HEMF r-emotional layer is only about the present life experience of a particular emotion and the load or charge it carries. The layer will hold signatures that are pure emotion and reactive to situations or experiences without learning from them or even really using them. It is purely experience and always now, and now, and now. There is no sequential learning. Only feeling or felt sense.

How?

When the emotional access points are misaligned the emotion expressed by the persona feels false. Even though the person may be feeling the emotion strongly and feel justification for it the actual internal connection is missing. Their expression will not land. They “feel” to other people like they are making up the emotion or creating drama. They are feeling it but others cannot connect in any way except to run from them or get away as fast as they can from this false and manipulative energetic. It is wildly frustrating to all. A misaligned Emotional Access Point also allows the formation of Resonating Cords, which is a pathology related to HEMF Emotional Signatures. Realigning Emotional Access Points allows the release of Resonating Cords and a return to a less cluttered Emotional Layer, the HEMF and as a result greater holistic health.
