

Chakra Cyst Removal

What?

A Chakra Cyst is an accumulation of BES debris that congeals and holds on in a part of the chakra. Most common locations are: the major chambers: intentionality and receptivity, as well as the wisdom function corridors. Chakra Cysts usually don't attach to either the lesser or greater gates or to the soul pathways or chakra streams and are almost always found in places where they can expand. They can get wrapped up in the osmotic barriers of the corridors and cause some problems especially in the chi pool. In the chakra entrance and exit points at the alignment and dispersal valves, the nodes of intentionality or receptivity, or the anterior and posterior lesser gates there is too much movement so debris doesn't usually collect and stay in these places to attract the congealing properties that make a cyst. However, Chakra Cysts can slow and even stop the movement of the BES energies through these areas. They are a unique form of debris collection.

Why?

Chakra Cysts happen because of a repeated type of worry or anxious concern that becomes more aggressive over time. This excess energy gets caught in the chakra as a little nodule area. These can take years to develop. Over time the nascent cyst can become coated with more and more debris until it grows into a mature cyst. It will then cause a slowing of the movement of the chakra currents. This makes the overall health of the structure less vibrant and can deplete reserves over time.

How?

Removing a Chakra Cyst is like plucking a pebble out of your shoe. It's easy to do and easy to experience an immediate relief. Understanding what the cyst is and how to let go of the worry and concern with a new and healthier strategy is a good way to improve chakra health.

Sacred Anatomy Energy Medicine Procedure

Chakra Cyst Removal

1. Apply the Edge Practice. With permission determine the need for Chakra Cyst Removal.
2. Determine how many and which chakra/s are experiencing a Chakra Cyst.
3. Determine the exact location of the cyst in the chakra. It will only be in:
 - a. Intentionality:
 1. Function Node?
 2. Function corridor?
 3. Anterior function osmotic barrier?
 4. Purpose Node?
 5. Wisdom Node?
 6. Wisdom corridor?
 7. Anterior wisdom osmotic barrier?
 - b. Receptivity:
 1. Function Node?
 2. Posterior function osmotic barrier?
 3. Purpose Node?
 4. Wisdom Node?
 5. Posterior wisdom osmotic barrier?
4. Determine the issue: the client will have a good idea but if they don't-dowse. Ask the question:
 - Is this a present moment or historical issue or concern of anxiety related to the chakra (i.e. anxiety about love- heart chakra)? - OR -

- Is this present moment or historical issue, or a persistent worry related to the chakra (i.e. worry about money and if there is enough for my family- solar plexus or dan tien chakra)?
5. Palpate the cyst to get a sense of the intensity of the holding around the issue. The harder, the bigger the cyst the longer and more absorbing this concern will have been in place and affecting the health and well being of the chakra.
 6. Discuss the concerning issue and come to 100% understanding of it.
 7. Surround the Chakra Cyst with Surrender- unscrew it turning counter clockwise (facing the client) and then simply pluck it out.
 8. Fill the hole with ULL.
 9. Replenish with Sense of Wisdom or Sense of Function if the cyst is in one of the corridors or nodes and Sense of Purpose if it is in a node.
 10. Bring in Harmonizing the BES
 11. Bring in IBWSIB
