Auburn Head Coach Gus Malzahn

On third-down stops and Tank Bigsby's yards after contact...

"First of all, on third down our guys really responded. I know they are tired of hearing "third down defense." Well, tonight they responded in a big way against a team that is pretty solid on 3rd down. And then Tank, he has done that all year. When he had that time to get injured there it kind of set him back, but he runs violently, he breaks tackles, he is very explosive. I don't think he is 100% right now and he rushed for almost 200 yards on the road against one of the best statistical defenses in our league, so I think there's a lot of good things going on with him."

On passing a lot early...

"Yeah, maybe we were throwing it a little bit early. We had that big holding call, going in, put us back to 2nd down and 25 or something and then we had another holding penalty we threw it to Eli [Stove], I think Seth [Williams] got a holding penalty, and we got the ball back to the three. Both of those were tough right there. We would have felt a little bit better about the first half. There was a feeling out. We did think that the longer the game went on that we are able to lean on a little bit and start getting to push and we were able to do that in the second half."

Mississippi State Head Coach Mike Leach

On not having the same rhythm offensively as the weeks prior...

"Well, I thought Auburn has a good defense, and they have most of the year. I thought we missed some opportunities. I thought that we had some self-inflicted wounds. It's almost like the worst thing happened at the worst time type of things. We'd move the ball, have a guy wide open and then all of a sudden not protect. Or, we'd protect pretty well and guys would get jammed at the line of scrimmage. I'm sure Will [Rogers] has a couple throws that he'd like to have over again. Some of those were a combination of protection and routes clearing and things like that. We just have to fight through it and improve as a team. Nobody really thought when we started this season that we'd play Auburn nearly this close ... In our case, we're kind of reeling from the disappointment of not playing as well as we could've this game."

On Auburn getting to the quarterback successfully...

"I'd have to go back and watch the film. To me, it seemed like there were individual breakdowns. It didn't seem like it was one guy. They took turns. If you take turns eight times, those are huge plays. It was unfortunate. When [the Auburn defenders] would take turns, there would be [Jaden] Walley or somebody wide open and ready for a gigantic play, but one of those interceptions [happen]. It was going to be a monster play if [Rogers] could have stepped through. The ball floated because he got hit. If he could've stepped through it, that was going to be a monster play. We had several like that, and it's almost like we took turns at the worst possible times. We had other issues too. Motivating them wasn't difficult. Playing tense and trying to make too much happen sometimes was. And, playing keep away with regard to opportunities we had out there."
