GETARLOTTE G. LOWDER STUDENT-ATELETE DEVELOPMENT GENTER

The Charlotte G. Lowder Student-Athlete Development Center, with 33,000 square feet of dedicated space to students and learning, gives Auburn University the physical infrastructure that allows the ability to implement and expand the array of programs designed to enhance the academic performance of Auburn student-athletes. Located adjacent to the Auburn Athletic Complex, the facility is centrally located for easy access for all Tiger athletic teams.

The goals of the Charlotte G. Lowder Student-Athlete Development Center are to create an opportunity for one-stop learning for all services including academic counseling, life skills and tutorial services; to utilize the technology available to support academic missions; and to create a showplace that honors achievements of student-athletes. In addition, programs are designed to develop leadership skills and a strong, altruistic attitude, which are fundamental characteristics of the Auburn graduate. Within the walls of the center are the Academic Hall of Honor designed by Auburn student-athletes, two "smart" classrooms with new and innovative technology that hold 50 people per room, seven counselor offices as well as administrative support, the PAW (Promoting Academic Winners) office, Operation Follow-Through, the Student-Athlete Advisory Committee office, 40 four-person tutorial rooms, a library resource area, a soft-study lounge, a 25-station computer classroom, the student "Cantina" for snacks and beverages and the tutor coordinator office.

The construction of the Student-Athlete Development Center was made possible by the generosity of Robert and Charlotte Lowder and from the Lowder Family Foundation.

SPORTS MEDICINE

AUBURN ATHLETIC TRAINING

Auburn's Athletic Training Rooms provide expert health care for student-athletes. Auburn student-athletes have access to the latest in sports medicine equipment and rehabilitation equipment.

The Auburn Athletic Training Rooms include a newly-renovated hydro-therapy area which contains a Swim Ex, which is an aquatic therapy system for rehabilitation and training of injuries. The area also houses a controlled filtered hot and cold tank. The water in the tank can be maintained at any temperature.

Mike Roberts, the Director of Sports Medicine, oversees Auburn's training room facilities and directs a staff of 19 certified athletic trainers. Their experience and expertise contribute to keeping the Tigers healthy and protected during and after their seasons. These athletic trainers teach and work with many student athletic trainers throughout the year.

AUBURII SPORTS MEDIGINE

Auburn athletes benefit greatly from the athletic department's association with Auburn Sports Medicine through the Andrews Sports Medicine and Orthopaedic Center and the Lemak Sports Medicine Institute. These organizations help provide primary and orthopaedic health care for Auburn University's student-athletes.

The team includes Auburn team physician Dr. Michael Goodlett and two of the top orthopaedic surgeons in the country. Dr. James Andrews and Dr. Lawrence Lemak. Auburn Sports Medicine began its association with the Auburn University Athletic Department in 1993 and since then, has provided and coordinated health care for all of Auburn University's varsity sports.

Dr. Andrews and Dr. Lemak are founding members of both Alabama Sports Medicine and Orthopaedic Center (ASMOC) and the American Sports Medicine Institute (ASMI). ASMI is involved in research as well as the training of orthopaedic/sports medicine fellows through its fellowship program.

STRENGTH AND REHABILITATION GENTER

Auburn athletes benefit greatly from the new $3.5 million, 6288square foot Strength and Rehabilitation Center that opened in January 2004.

The state-of-the-art facility features a weight room and locker room on the first floor. The second floor houses an X-ray lab, rehabilitation center, physical therapy area, offices for Alabama Sports Medicine and Orthopaedic Center physicians and a research institute directed by Dr. James Andrews (American Sports Medicine Institute) which serves nationally-acclaimed professional athletes as well as Auburn's studentathletes. Rehabilitation services are provided by a physical therapist dedicated to addressing the needs of Auburn's student-athletes.

PANZ-08 AUBURN BASKETBALL

According to fable, sports and the cry of "War Eagle" came to Auburn the same day.

It was February 20, 1892, the day Auburn and Georgia met in the first game of the longest continuous football rivalry in the Deep South.

The story actually began before that. That first Auburn-Georgia game was only the culmination. It began in 1864 at the Battle of the Wilderness in Virginia.

An Auburn student had gone off to fight with Robert E. Lee and the Confederate troops. He was with them on the worst day of the long and fierce battle.

He was wounded, and when the armies retreated to their respective lines, he was left on the battle field for dead. When he regained consciousness, there were only two living things as far as he could see, himself and a baby eagle.

Brought together by their common bond of misery, the soldier took the wounded bird with him and nursed him back to health. When he returned to Auburn after the war, the eagle came with him.

The student-turned-soldier came back to Auburn and ultimately became a member of the faculty. He was there that day in Atlanta's Piedmont Park when Auburn and Georgia met in what would now be called "The Game of the Century." As usual, the eagle--called War Eagle because of the circumstances under which he was found-was there with him.

When Auburn scored the first touchdown the old eagle broke free from its master and began to soar above the field. Auburn people looked skyward, saw the familiar figure, and shouted "War Eagle." At the end of the game which Auburn won 10-0, the old eagle collapsed and died, presumably having given his all in pursuit of victory for Auburn. War Eagle's body may have died that day, but his spirit lives forever in the hearts of Auburn people who love to stand and shout "War-r-r-r Eagle" long into the night following an Auburn victory.

The facts of this fable cannot be authenticated, but it makes a good story and is the one most used to describe how the "War Eagle" battle cry became associated with Auburn teams.

Auburn teams are known as "The Auburn Tigers," but the cry of Auburn faithful is ever the same: "War-r-r-r Eagle!"

Auburn University's icon, War Eagle VI, won a place in the hearts of college fans across the country, as she gracefully soared in the stadium and arena before each home game. The 27-year-old golden eagle is a proud representation of the Auburn spirit.

Tiger's role is to help promote wildlife conservation as a part of the conservation education efforts of Auburn's Raptor Center, where she is housed by permission of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Tiger was rescued in the mid-1980s by the Fish and Wildlife Service from an illegal breeding operation in Missouri.

Perhaps the biggest recognition the Raptor Center has received was during the Opening Ceremonies of the 2002 Winter Olympics in Salt Lake City, Utah, when Tiger flew across the ice in front of thousands in the stadium and billions of television viewers worldwide. After her outstanding performance, Tiger was also featured on NBC's Today Show.

The primary goal of the Jonathan Bell Lovelace Athletic Museum and Hall of Honor is to preserve, interpret and exhibit the great athletes, teams, coaches and administrators who embody the true spirit of Auburn University.

Immediately upon entering the museum, visitors see an exciting splash of video images, athletic highlights and events which will stir the spirit and pride shared by Auburn people. Visitors see how the tradition of sports at Auburn has transcended generations of athletes, alumni, faculty and staff. Detailed presentations of all Auburn sports are displayed in the "History of Auburn Athletics" exhibit.

A primary theme of the museum is the celebration of the "Auburn Spirit." The "Traditions Gallery" gives visitors an inside look at the cultures and subcultures of Auburn, the development of its spirit, and the passionate feelings for its history shared by Auburn people.

Visitors begin their exploration of the "Traditions of Auburn" with a trip to Toomer's Corner, a central element in this traditionrich culture. Across the street from Toomer's, visitors see the "rolled" tree -- a rallying point for Auburn people. Visitors are also able to experience the perspective of the Auburn player as they proceed down the Tiger Walk.

Visitors get to know Auburn athletes from the training table to the playing field to the Olympic Games. Emphasis is placed on the long hours of training, studying and preparation it takes to develop a champion athlete and a championship program.

The museum is named after Jonathan Bell Lovelace, who served as a manager on Mike
