THE TRADITION IS MODERN.

THE HISTORY OF THE RUSSO BROTHERS DISTILLERY: FROM ITS ORIGINS TO TODAY.

The Russo Brothers' Etna Distillery, whose origins date back to 1870, is the only one currently active in Eastern Sicily.

It stands on a charming hill at the foot of Etna, not far from the enchanting Ionian coast, in the town of Santa Venerina (fraction of Dagala del Re), in the province of Catania.

Through various generations it has continued and increasingly perfected the ancient art of the island master distillers. The brothers Salvatore and Giuseppe Russo, now in their eighties, still remember the many sacrifices faced and the great passion lavished on the company by their father Carmelo and their two older brothers, Alfio and Ignazio, who died prematurely.

For some years now, the two entrepreneurs have also been able to count on the valid contribution of the new generation who, with their creative and innovative spirit and ambition, have contributed, while fully respecting tradition, to making the company increasingly competitive and avant-garde in the Italian and foreign markets.

After the war, the need of the Russo brothers to keep up with the times brought about great changes in terms of production. Since then, Brandy and Grappa began to be produced, initially destined for the markets of Northern Italy, and bitters and various liqueurs.

The grappa of the Russo Distillery was sold to important companies in Northern Italy who bottled it. The quality was so high that the definition "Gran Riserva" was affixed to the tanks, which filled the four master distillers Alfio, Ignazio, Salvatore and Giuseppe with pride. Subsequently the Grappa and Brandy were bottled by the same company and sold locally, nationally and internationally.

The first grappa produced, i.e. Grappa dell'Etna, which is still today the flagship of the company, has given way, over the years, to a prestigious line made up of no less than ten grappas (white, barricaded, aromatic and flavored) and the prized prickly pear brandy. In the production of grappas, the company prefers a distillation method with low-temperature vacuum columns.

The fermented pomace of the vines used, carefully selected, lightly pressed, is distilled in special steam stills which enhance the aromas and flavors of each grappa. It is up to the mastery of the craftsman to ensure that the heads and tails are discarded and only the heart of the distillate, the noblest and most valuable part, is allowed to pass.

Among the liqueurs one of the very first was the Amaro which is still today one of the company's flagship products. After some time, Limoncello di Sicilia began to be produced, which immediately conquered the market for its quality and genuineness, soon overcoming national borders.

More recent are the two lines of Rosoli and Cremoncelli which have achieved great success on the part of consumers and industry experts.

Through the production of Grappa, Brandy, Distillates, Bitters, Typical Liqueurs, Artisan Rosoli and Creams, the Russo company has set itself the goal of preserving the tradition and enhancing the fragrances of Sicily, expressing love for their land and always guaranteeing authenticity and quality.

In the panorama of liqueurs, the Russo Siciliano Distillery stands out for:

- ✓ Its long tradition
- ✓ A constant focus on innovation
- ✓ The desire for experimentation
- ✓ His reinterpretation of tradition in a modern and current way

L'ACQUAVITE

ERETICA

Acquavite di Fico d'India di Sicilia

Provocative and rebellious, prickly pear brandy is Eretical. To our master distiller it seemed like a heresy to distill a fruit with such a difficult and thorny appearance, but the result was amazing.

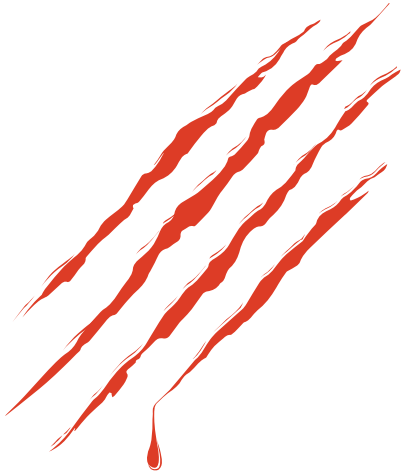

A distillate, soft, enveloping and with a delicate and exotic scent like that of prickly pear.

Alcohol content:
38% Vol.

Tasting instructions:
You take a small sip and let it flow on the palate. Cold is entrancing, and is also the perfect ingredient for sophisticated cocktails.
