H&M Group empowers customers worldwide to express their style through its range of brands and businesses. Our team of developers augmented the Swedish side, working on the web application with ReactJS.

The overall goal was to develop an in-house solution for website performance - aspects such as time of interaction and time of the first buy being crucial. The emphasis was and continues to be on optimization and speed. This collaboration started one year ago and continues today, with the client being very pleased with our ways of work.

Embr Wave

Embr Wave 2 is a mobile app that communicates with a wearable device for thermal well-being. It offers warming and cooling sensations to ease discomfort for patients. Our mobile team collaborated with the Embr Wave side on implementing features and screens that focused on the user's needs.

Every preference can be communicated to the phone and device in seconds, making each session unique. Besides this, our developers worked on a calendar about previous cooling and warming sessions, optimized the Bluetooth connection, and handled notification features and other UI tasks.

KIND

A mobile app for people that use a specific hearing aid, providing dedicated support with an enriched fitting process and unique hearing profiles. Our mobile team worked alongside the client on developing a personalized experience for customers.

Being in charge of the technical facets of this project, our React Native developers worked on keeping track of the user's activities and integrated deep links to ensure the preview of the content. We were in charge of complex UI components and animation, created a library for internal design systems, and also created a few web functionalities.

We conducted the full mobile development of an online learning platform with over 5 million users worldwide.

The objective was to create a functional, easy-to-use mobile platform where students can practice their English skills. Our approach consisted of providing a complete Dedicated Team (Scrum Master, frontend developers, a Manual Tester) to create a mobile app that showcases and highlights English Discoveries' core strengths.
