

Product Engineer Medical

Location : Paris, FRANCE

Type of position : Full time – Permanent contract

Our client is a start-up based in Paris, named French Tech 120. A potential world-class technological leader, the company develops new innovative polymers for tissue reconstruction.

The company is looking for a Product Development Engineer who will be the key role in the project team to develop, maintain and improve the company portfolio via the risk management DHF and V&Vs activities. You will contribute to the development of new medical device solutions to address clinical needs.

Main tasks and responsibilities :

As part of the development team, you will be responsible for the following tasks :

- Work closely with a cross-functional team and subcontractors/suppliers in order to meet project deliverable in term of quality and timeline expectation
- Ensure the developed products comply to quality and regulations
- Manage product development activities and write the relating documentation (specifications, protocols, testing activities for the associated V&Vs including usability, costs performance)
- Create and maintain DHF deliverables (Design Inputs/outputs, Validation Plan & Report...)
- Support the design and development as well as 2D-3D CAD
- Update and maintain Risk Management activities

Profile :

- Engineering or technical degree
- 2-5 years' experience in Medical Devices development
- Experience or knowledge in electronic and optical devices development
- Understanding of Audit inspection processes and current medical devices regulations
- Experience in project management and development studies conduction
- Ability to work with cross-functional teams
- Excellent communication, presentation and technical writing skills in English
- Hands-on approach, autonomy, continuous improvement and rigorous

If you are ingenious and willing to provide solutions, and want to join a fast-growing, innovative start-up with opportunities for development, then contact us!