

WILD RED MEAD

What is Mead?

Mead is the world's oldest alcoholic drink. It is made from fermented honey and dates back at least 9,000 years.

Kinsale Mead

Our award-winning meads are judged as among the best in the world. They are full of delicious flavours, fermented from carefully sourced pure honey and ripe berries. They embody the modern, refined style of mead making, refreshingly different and versatile, either served on their own or as a lovely alternative to wine when paired with food or in a range of cocktails to delight the senses.

Naturally gluten free. Low in Sulfites.

Wild Red Mead

A melomel style mead, pure honey fermented with fruit. Packed full of flavour, it balances the tartness of Irish blackcurrants with sweetness from dark cherries with a silky smooth finish. Off Dry, 12% ABV Gold at the Free From Food Awards.

Gold at Blas na hÉireann – Irish Food and Drink Awards

Silver at European Mead Madness Cup

Gold at the International Mazer Cup

Tasting Notes:

Wexford blackcurrants beautifully balanced with sweet, dark cherries, a hint of honey and a rounded, smooth finish. Matured for 18 months in our stainless steel tanks.

Serve:

Enjoy on its own at room temperature.

Cocktail:

Mulled Mead, gently warmed, gently spiced. Wild Red Mead, cinnamon stick, star anise and honey. Or Mead Negroni.

Food Pairing:

Great paired with roast duck and Cumberland sauce, wonderful with sticky barbecue ribs, black pudding, strong cheese or dark chocolate.

Honeymoon

It is said a month's supply, or a moon cycle of mead was gifted to newlyweds to bring good luck to the marriage, hence the name Honeymoon.
