

Docent. Dr. Nataša Lovrić is a Senior Principal Scientist in EU and International Forest Bioeconomy, International Forest and Environmental Governance, European Forest Bioeconomy and European Forest Policy at the University of Eastern Finland, Faculty of Science, Forestry and Technology, School of Forest Sciences in Joensuu, Finland. She holds a PhD degree from Freiburg University (Germany) in forestry, environmental and natural resources policy and governance. She has over 18 years expertise in research, teaching, science to policy interface in stakeholder participation, EU green science diplomacy, foresight and forest bioeconomy, socio-economic and political aspects of forestry. Previously to this, she worked for 16 years as a researcher for the European Forest Institute also in Joensuu Finland.