Closing the
Circularity Gap

Our Vision

Closing the Gap

Green Gap was formed out of the vision to accelerate the transition to a circular economy. We are committed to walking with businesses on their sustainability journey. Our vision is to bridge the gap between business's sustainability intentions and actions.

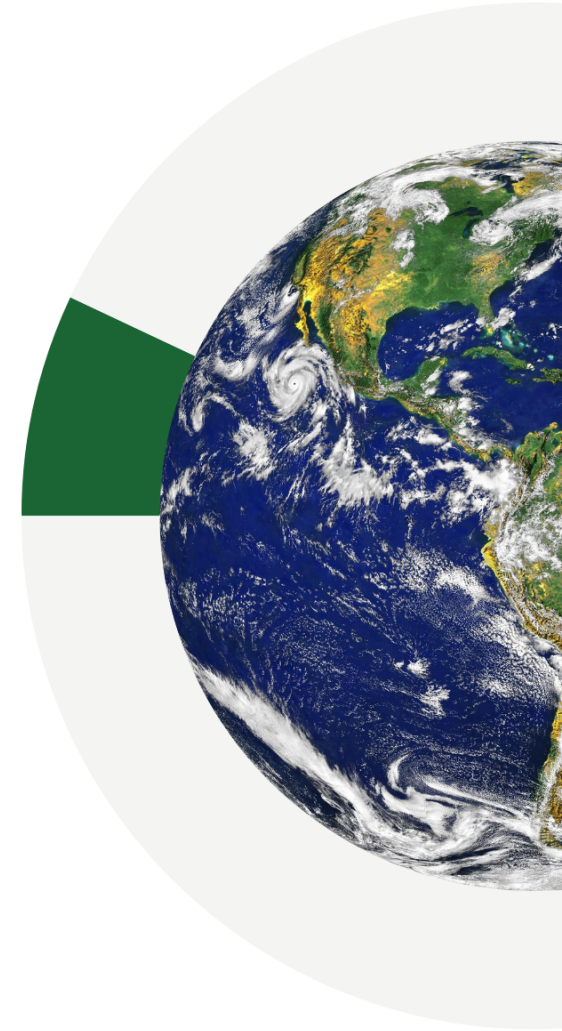

Why Green Gap?

Don't Waste Group embarked on a journey of restructuring to enhance their commitment to sustainability and bridge the gap between sustainability intentions and actions.

Recognising the need for specialised expertise, a newly registered consultancy was formed. Green Gap will operate under the Don't Waste group of companies but it will have a separate board of directors.

The global economy is only 7.2% circular. Green Gap is dedicated to partnering with companies to narrow this gap.

Meet The CEO

Linus Naik | PhD

Chief Executive Officer

Linus is not just a leader; he's an environmentalist at heart and in practice. He holds a Doctorate in Chemical Engineering which focused on waste and energy solutions in emerging economies, and is completing an MBA in Leadership and Sustainability. For more than a decade, Linus has brought his expertise to Don't Waste, a waste minimisation company. In his various roles, Linus provided oversight in Sustainability, Software and Business Development; spearheading initiatives to enhance recycling practices, client reporting, and promoting sustainability awareness. Linus is also a director of the Zero Waste Foundation a non-profit organisation focused on waste minimisation, education and environmental conservation.

Together with his team, Green Gap has curated skills in sustainability strategy, waste minimisation, circular economy, supply chain management, carbon strategy, and net zero. They all have experience in waste minimisation, alternatives to landfill and are Net Zero Accredited professionals with the Green Building Council of South Africa.
