Who we are

We are a strategic consulting firm specializing in dual-use civil/military technologies. We transform the technological potential of companies and investors into solutions ready for the European defense ecosystem.

MISSION

Connecting civilian technological innovation with defense and security, using the practical experience of military leaders to strengthen technological sovereignty.

VISION

To be the catalyst for the technological transformation of defense in Spain and Europe.

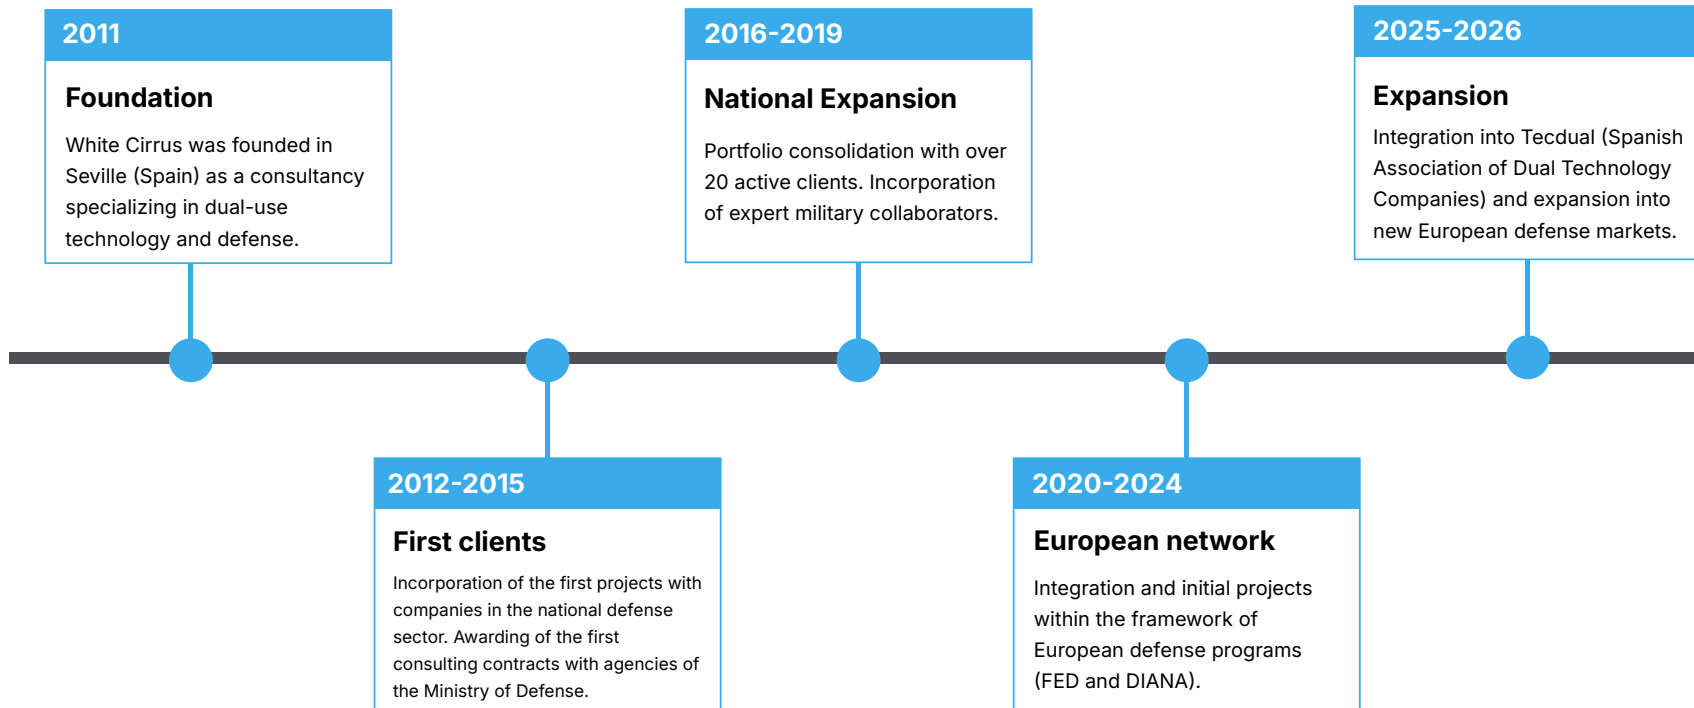

VALUES

Dual vision · Practical execution · Sovereign impact.

Timeline and trajectory

Key milestones in our strategic evolution

Our services

Your project is the future of security. Our solutions are the tools to make it a reality.

Strategic Consulting

Expert advice on DGAM registrations, security certifications (HPS/HSE), and regulatory compliance for entering the defense ecosystem.

Financial intermediation

Document engineering (Blind Teaser) and access to strategic capital to scale solutions in the defense and security sector.

Training and technical services

NATO certifications and compliance audits are essential for operating at the highest standards in the civil and military sectors.

Our team

Experts who merge military and technological talent

White Cirrus has a large team of strategic consultants specializing in dual-use technology, the vast majority of whom are retired military officers with extensive operational experience in the Armed Forces and the State Security Forces.

Their first-hand knowledge of the processes, regulations, and needs of the defense sector is the most valuable asset we put at the service of each client.
