

THE AI CEILING

AI Is Impressive Until You Try to Use It for Real

Every manufacturer we talk to has the same three experiences.

- 1 “I tried it. The output was... fine.”
You asked AI to draft a quote, write a follow-up, or find a supplier. It gave you something generic. You spent 30 minutes fixing it. Next time you just did it yourself.
- 2 “I got it working for me. Now what?”
You invested hours building prompts, loading context, creating reference docs. It finally works. For you. Your team can't use your setup, and if you stop maintaining it, the whole thing rots.
- 3 “I can't let it do real work unsupervised.”
You've seen it modify files without asking, make up capabilities you don't have, or draft something you'd never send to a customer. So it stays in a sandbox where it can't hurt anything. Or help much.

What if the AI already knew your operation?

Your certifications. Your equipment. Your customers. Your quoting rules. What if it started from there, and got smarter every week?

See it live at Hall 27. We'll map your company in two minutes.

HOW IT ACTUALLY WORKS

Your rules, hardcoded. Not suggestions in a prompt.

See it in action at Hall 27.

Or book 30 minutes.
