1. Executive Summary

The Cameroon Rural Integrated Development Programme (CRIDP) is a premier non-governmental organization dedicated to sustainable rural transformation in Sub-Saharan Africa. Led by Executive Strategist M. Che John Yah, who brings 30 years of medical expertise and 22 years of rural NGO leadership, the organization bridges the gap between high-level scientific research and practical, community-led implementation.

2. Core Competencies

- Climate-Smart Agriculture: Implementation of solar-powered irrigation and soil health monitoring systems.
- Circular Bio-Economy: Developing sustainable models for organic composting and resource recycling.
- Rural Infrastructure: Designing resilient groundwater restoration and community water access solutions.
- Logistics & Field Management: Specialized expertise in Sub-Saharan transport, equipment deployment, and project monitoring.

3. Key Personnel

Our multidisciplinary team includes experts in Logistics (led by Anehmbom Christina), IT/Informatics, Legal Counsel, and Social Welfare, ensuring holistic project management, transparency, and accountability.

4. Strategic Vision

CRIDP serves as a "Living Lab" for international consortia, offering a robust platform for testing and scaling European innovations in tropical rural contexts. We are ready to act as a primary implementation partner for Horizon Europe and other international grant cycles.
