OUR STORY

Humanodoro started when its founders, Kristjan, Matej, and Urban noticed how often their phones interrupted focus during the day.

Constant notifications, context switching, and unconscious doomscrolling made it harder to stay concentrated and led to lost time and energy.

Instead of trying to remove phones from everyday life, the team focused on creating a simple way to manage distractions, turning a common problem into a practical tool shaped through prototyping, testing, and real use.

Humanodoro is a young European company supported by partners like Logout.org and researchers like prof. dr. Aleš Holobar.
