AVERE

With great technology and brilliant people, I found my way in one of the fastest changing and growing technologies: electrical vehicles. There is nothing greater than finding opportunities for new technologies that will change the future. This electrification is overlapping promising climate solutions, ecology, mobility and possible disruption of our future transport. It results in major challenges for the industry, academy & policy. Working for AVERE with a history since 1978 it is a fantastic process that I feel lucky to participate in.
