Europe's leader in property data solutions for the finance and real estate industries

PriceHubble was founded to bring transparency into real estate markets globally. Combining the best of big data and machine learning, PriceHubble leads the development of cutting-edge property data solutions for the finance and real estate industries.
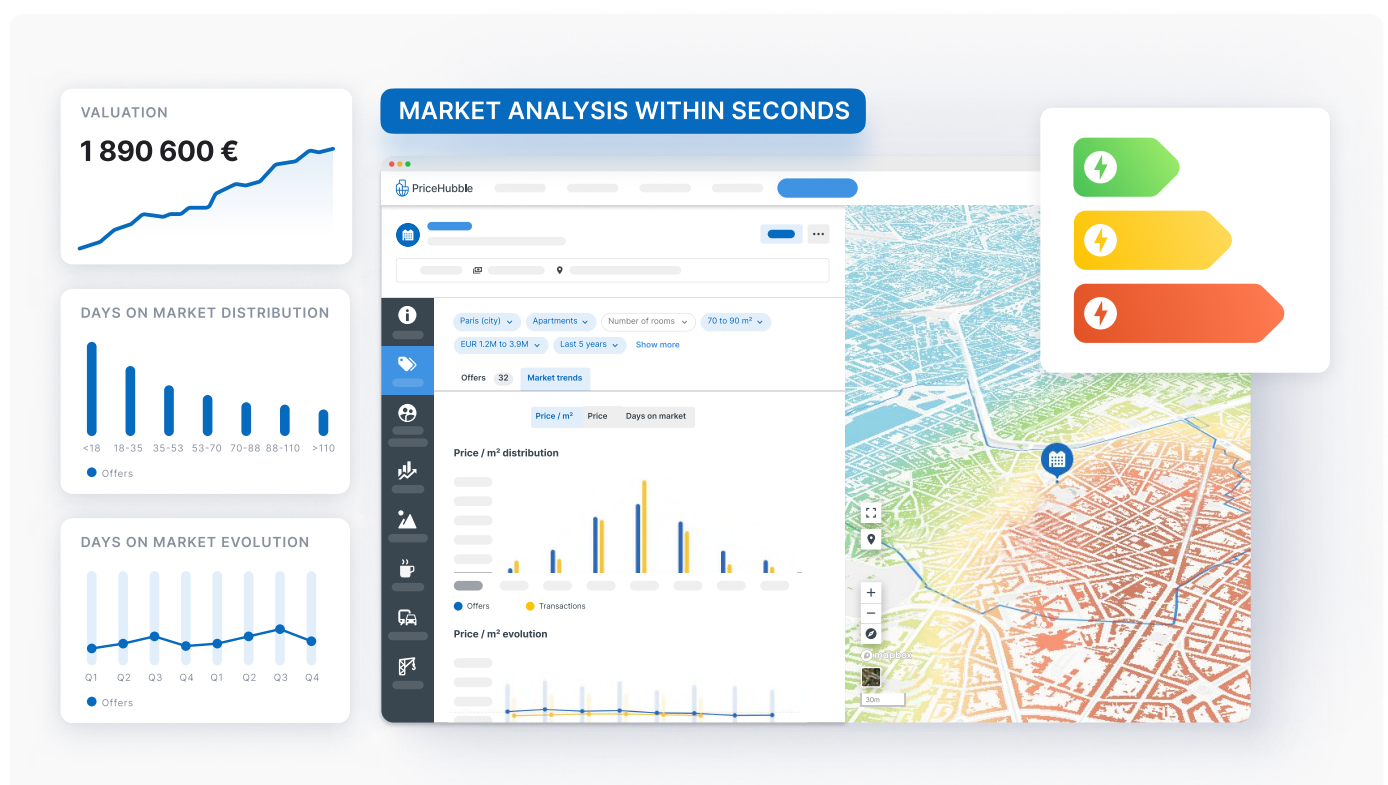

Our team

PriceHubble has gathered a unique team of data scientists, engineers and seasoned entrepreneurs to provide its clients in the finance and real estate sectors with the most advanced real estate insights, seamlessly integrated into their daily business processes.

Our solutions

PriceHubble collects, organises and analyses any type of data that is even remotely related to the residential real estate market, such as transaction data, listings, urban amenities, socio-economics, energy performance, building permits, and more. We have assembled one of the largest proprietary residential real estate databases on the market with unmatched depth in the countries in which we operate.

The insights that we acquire are fed into our algorithm. The algorithm is realised as our automated valuation model (AVM), that is the technology that is at the heart of our business. That technology is the backbone of every one of our products. It enables our customers to use our solutions to value residential property.

In addition to property valuations, we expose critical data and insights to our customers so that they can use it in their businesses to advise their end-customers or make data-driven decisions within their own organisation. We also provide insights; making it possible and easy for our customers to see context with historical data, identify trends, and forecast.

Our insights are made available to customers through productised (web app or API) data and analytics software solutions which we sell via subscription.
