#4. Plan Your Strategy to Attempt the Paper

Everyone has their own strategy of attempting the paper based on their strong & weak points. The best way is to start the paper from that subject in which you have the good command. It will boost your confidence & also build up a positive environment. For example, Reading comprehension can consume a lot of your time if you are not good at it, so for those, we suggest you to attempt comprehension section at the end. You can also look at the cutoffs of this year and previous year. It will give you an idea on which section you need to work on more.
