

VOLUNTEERS 2018

This is the evening of the volunteer dinner

Each volunteer is either a saint or a sinner

But regardless each one is a winner

None of them is a quitter

Nor is anyone bitter

All are go-gitters

Each Meals on Wheels driver

Could be called a sitter

They sit in their cars for miles on end

With construction going on

Wondering what's around the next bend

Those who set the tables wash them off first

Their job though isn't the worst

Some have to learn where to put the silverware

And figure out where to seat the mayor

When he comes to eat - which is rare

Those who set the tables often

Put a bonnet over their hair

And help dish up salads and desserts

For the LUNCH BUNCH

Some volunteers answer the telephones

To help the office staff

They dare not laugh

When things are slow

A few take a look

Find a book and read

Until someone has a need

When spring rolls around

Volunteers dig in the ground

To see what can be found

Do the work outdoors

When the sun shines and the rain pours

There's magnificent flowers galore

So many jobs volunteers do

We thank the entire crew

Thank you, VOLUNTEERS !

We couldn't do without YOU.

All the ice and snow

When WE think spring

What will the next day bring ?

But the volunteers' voices ring

"Warmer days are coming," they sing
