One More Hurdle...

By Char Jokerst

Imagine you, your spouse, your child, or your neighbor are having an emergency that requires advanced medical procedures. Time is of the essence, and response time for an ambulance in our area is 25 minutes to one hour. While our fire department is only 15 minutes away from most patient contact, we currently have only the most basic life support capabilities and are not able to administer crucial life saving interventions and medications known worldwide as "ALS," or Advanced Life Support.

But we are getting closer. In February of this year our Fire Chief, Brandi Dudek, completed a grueling course of study and internship and was awarded a certificate for her AEMT, or Advanced Emergency Medical Technician license. This March, she passed her National Exam and is now a nationally recognized NRAEMT, which was the final hurdle to gaining her local AEMT licensure. There remains one more "minor" hurdle before our fire department can offer these new ALS skills to you.

Before we delve into this final hurdle, let's acknowledge Brandi Dudek's huge accomplishment: The AEMT course included 80 hours of classroom time, 80 hours of internship in an ambulance and in the ER, 15 actual ALS patient contacts (that is administering ALS medications to a real patient under the supervision of a paramedic), a written exam, a demonstration of skills exam, and finally the National Exam. This intense course of study occupied Brandi's "free time" from early last fall, through the holidays, and into February of 2018. The class was held in Downieville, where 11 other students from Sierra City, Downieville, Pike, and Alleghany were led through their studies by Frank Lang, Nurse Practitioner, of Downieville. Brandi has been an EMT since 2010 and the Camptonville Volunteer Fire Department (CVFD) Fire Chief since 2013.

Chief Dudek's new license allows her to administer multiple life saving measures to adults, children, and infants. She may administer medications intravenously, via syringe, and orally. The list of medications will include saline (for resuscitation in multiple types of emergencies), dextrose and Glucagon (for diabetic emergencies), Narcan (for opioid overdoses), bronchodilators (for asthma and difficulty breathing), nitroglycerin (for heart attacks), epinephrine (for allergic reactions) and activated charcoal (for neutralizing some poisons). But, as noted above, there remains one final hurdle before any of these skills can be brought to bear in Camptonville...

The CVFD has been a licensed provider of Basic Life Support medical services for many years, and CVFD's firefighters and EMTs rely on this licensure to administer emergency medical services here in Camptonville. In order for Brandi to be allowed to use these new AEMT skills, the CVFD will need to be licensed as an ALS provider by the Sierra Sacramento Valley (SSV) medical authority. Gaining this license will require the completion of several tons of paperwork, hiring (or perhaps in our case "volunteering") a program coordinator, establishing a Medical Director (under whose authority Brandi would work), and finally, keeping all of these ducks in a row year after year. Brandi herself will be required to complete 86 hours of Continuing Education credits every two years, up from the 24 hours required of an EMT.

Chief Dudek is currently catching her breath after five months of daily study, but has already started on the work of gaining an ALS license for the CVFD. Lucky for us, our VFD neighbors in North San Juan have recently completed this feat and have offered their support and assistance. Nonetheless, the coming hurdles remain mostly unknown, and getting this task done and keeping the license active in the years to come will consume many resources and years of time. It behooves all us to acknowledge Chief Dudek's commitment and passion and to lend her our support. It's one thing being a volunteer Fire Chief. It's another thing when you add on the role of EMT. It's quite another when you take on the role of an ALS-capable AEMT, and probably too much when you ask this same person to manage the entire program. The CVFD needs EMTs and desperately needs dedicated administrative support, and, as always, a little more funding.

I returned from Sacramento this afternoon a little more hopeful for the future, thanks to the roaring sea of thousands of creative, passionate youth I witnessed flowing toward the steps of the Capitol. Their signs projected clear messages of grief, condemnation, and action in the face of recent gun violence in several schools across the country. The March For Our Lives on March 24th was an effort entirely organized by youth, and attended by over a million people around the world!

Hard for me to tie this into a local angle; let's just say I'm betting there will never be a direct connection between the tragic reasons for the March and our supportive local community, due to the quality education and services Camptonville provides its own! So mote it be!

On another note, there is so much to celebrate this spring in the Foothills, from Earth Day events and the Burgee Dave's Fundraiser, to the gorgeous blossoming of purple redbuds and white dogwoods, to getting our hands into the dirt in our own gardens, to splashing in puddles with the little ones after April showers... May we all revel in the "flowers that bloom in the Spring," tra-la!

Celebrate Earth Day! Sunday, April 22nd

By Diana Pasquini, San Juan Ridge Family Resource Center

On Sunday, April 22nd, from 1 – 9pm, the San Juan Ridge Family Resource Center (FRC) will host the 3rd annual Earth Day Celebration at our beautiful Oak Tree Campus, 18847 Oak Tree Road, North San Juan. Our Earth Day event will be a joyous day of fun and frolic to celebrate life, as well as being a fundraiser for children's summer camps.

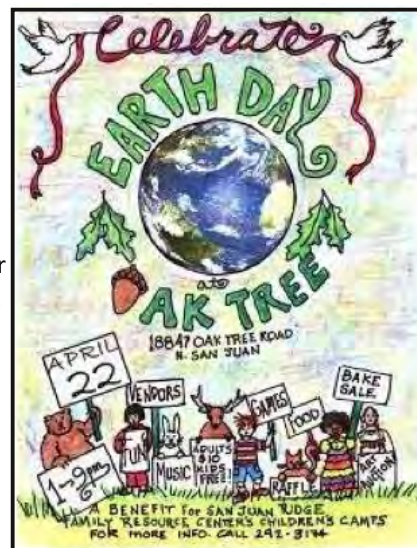

There will be Native American drumming and song, music, food, vendors, children's games and activities, a raffle, bake sale, "International Celebrity" fashion show, and more. This gathering is a celebration of the great beauty and diversity of life that is all around us.

The first Earth Day was conceived of as a day focused on education about environmental issues. 48 years later, it has grown into a global phenomenon. More than one billion people now rally, plant trees, pick up garbage, make speeches, and engage in a diverse range of activities as they rededicate themselves to the task of caring for our planet!

We humans are not separate from the planet we inhabit. It doesn't matter if you consider global warming to be a hoax or a fact, or if you believe that you reside on a disc or a sphere. What does matter is that you are here now, and a part of, not apart from, Planet Earth.

For information on being a vendor or volunteering, please call the NSJ Family Resource Center at 292-3174, or go to sjrfrcc@nevco.org.

See you on EARTH DAY!

The Kind that Lasts

By Yakshi Vadeboncoeur

Children arrive in our (often already crowded, busy, stressful) lives without instruction manuals, without filters, and without fully operational auto-controls. We adults arrive at parenthood without instincts, without previous experience (or sometimes with negative experience), and often ourselves without fully operational auto-pilot – children bearing children. Through much of early evolutionary history and simpler social eras, that was, in fact, the norm. It’s amazing the species has lasted this long! But so far we have, and our social arrangements for continuing to do so have gotten pretty complex. Both childhood and old age have gotten prolonged, and the transitions between life stages have become less clearly marked.

So, how does this dream called “becoming human” get fully realized? Well, part of the answer lies in the dream or goal itself. Becoming human is a process, and we live it together. We make each other the child and parent we are to become, and by extension the family, community, and world we are to be part of. A world of responsibility! A world of freedom and opportunity!

Plan to spend quality time in the present moment that every child dwells in. You will come to know them and yourself. Spend time in the presence of those in your community who’ve experienced this process before. Take a parenting class – this is not instinctual; there are wise guides; and some methods are more likely than others to help you reach your long-term goals. When over-stressed or tired, take time outs – these are for the adult as well as the child. Keep your sense of humor well exercised. It is one of our most fully human and humanizing attributes.

Remember that filter mentioned earlier that children come without? This lack can be an endless source of laughter and a great teacher, as well. It can help us see ourselves and the social world we live in much more clearly, both the part we like and the part we might want to change.

Whether you laugh out loud or in your heart of hearts, teach children tact and kindness by being kind. It’s the only “kind” that lasts.

St. Patrick's Day Fundraiser

By Barbara Ramirez and Camptonville Community Partnership (CCP)

It was definitely a good time had by all, as Camptonville Community Partnership held its sixth annual corned beef and cabbage dinner with all the fixin's, followed by our slightly-famous dessert auction. So many folks deserve a huge thank you! First is the community who came to this event rain, snow, or shine. On Saturday, that's how the morning started out. It snowed heavily as CCP's staff, Board, and volunteers decorated, set up, and prepared the dinner. Then lo and behold: the sun shone-eth by the time 4 o'clock rolled around and dinner was served to the earliest arrivals, who were also treated to a cheer from the St. Pat's Day Youth Spirit Team, led by Mandalin Rogers!

Cathy points to a lucky dessert bidder

CCP wishes to thank SPD Market for donating produce and Grocery Outlet, which supplied us with a $15-off coupon. Special big thank you goes out to CCP Board member Barbara Ramirez for event coordination, 1,2,3 Grow instructor (and so much more) Yakshi Vadeboncoeur for coordinating the desserts and bakers, volunteer Sidonie Christian for her amazing efforts in the kitchen from cooking to clean-up, and everyone else who helped to prepare and clean up for the event. Thank you!

About 45 people showed their support by donating a few dollars for a scrumptious dinner. More than one person commented that the corn beef was excellent. Before we knew it, it was dessert auction time! This is the crème de la crème (pun intended) of this fundraising event. Eighteen people donated their baking talents to provide 39 delicious, delectable desserts for auction. There were cookies, cakes, pies, and even fruit pizza. The dessert auctioneer, Cathy LeBlanc, CCP's Executive Director, revved up the crowd to begin the wild and sometimes frantic bidding!

CCP thanks everyone who donated their hard earned money to Camptonville Community Partnership. The funds will be used in a variety of ways that reinforce our ongoing efforts to support the community. Whether it's for the Resource Center, 1,2,3 Grow, youth activity stipends, or to help with general operating expenses, CCP appreciates every dollar!

Spring at the Community Center

By Cathy Balan, Director

The St. Patty's Day dinner presented by Camptonville Community Partnership was a great success. The aromatic smell of delicious corned beef and cabbage wafted through the room as smiling community members indulged and socialized with Irish glee.

As I write in March, we still have the Easter Egg Hunt/Breakfast and Alam Khan concert to experience. I'll report in May on those events and also on the progress of the Community Center renovations.

Saturday, April 28th, 7:30pm, Sri Moonshine Music Series presents: The Three Generations Trio

The second concert of this series features Terry Riley on synthesizer, piano, and Indian influenced vocals together with son Gyan Riley on guitar and Tracy Silverman on electric violin, for an immersive and meditative performance.

Tickets ($25/$20 for CCC members) may be purchased in Grass Valley at BriarPatch Food Co-op or online at: brownpapertickets.com/event/3348732

Saturday, May 5th, 6:30pm, Family Friendly Cinco De Mayo Celebration

World Beatnix is an original music dance band with a unique blend of musical styles, from Afro-beat to Egyptian to Cajun Bayou. Michael DiMartino, a band member, currently conducts drum workshops with the students at Camptonville School.

There will be a performance by the kids from 6:30 - 7pm, a community drum circle at 7, and World Beatnix "takes the stage" at 8. Dinner treats available from Fatty's Foods. Tickets are $10 at the door.

Coffee @ the Center continues on Saturdays from 10am - noon. It's a treat to see friends, enjoy a cup of java, and delight in the fresh baked goods made by neighbors. Please come and join in the fun!

Plant Sale and Flea Market - May 19

By Jesse Golden and Carolyn Mumm

This May we'll have a new location for the annual Plant Sale and Flea Market – check your May Courier for details and watch for flyers around town.

Wherever you find us from 9:30am - 2:30pm on Saturday, May 19th, we expect to have a profusion of vegetable and flower starts, plus all kinds of great flea market bargains!

We're hoping for participation from lots of Camptonville gardeners, residents and organizations. For information, please email calendarville@gmail.com or call 925-297-5375.

"3 Generations" Will Wow You - April 28!

By John Deaderick

World-renowned composer and keyboard master Terry Riley is joined onstage by his virtuoso son Gyan Riley on guitar(s) and "the Jimi Hendrix of the electric violin," Tracy Silverman. All are returning to Camptonville after various world tours and recording dates. You can count on being wowed by Terry's jazz stylings and his trademark swirling pulses. Gyan Riley, local son made good, returns from his New York home to play with dad and their pal Tracy, who hails from Nashville.

Silverman plays a six-stringed electric fiddle of his own design with an elaborate array of effects pedals at his feet to produce an astonishingly diverse range of sounds. These three frequently collaborate, as much as their busy schedules will allow anyway, and trade licks with astonishing technical brilliance and genuine feeling. All these genre-defying musicians are adept at jazz, rock, raga, and their own unique blend of styles that defy categorization.

Each has new recordings out in the world: Tracy and Terry have released on Naxos "The Palmian Chord Ryddle," a concerto Terry wrote for Tracy. Gyan's growing discography now includes the album "Sprig" on National Sawdust. Gyan plays with extraordinary depth joined with supreme skill.

This is an event not to be missed! With luck, maybe the three can be cajoled into reprising "The Camptonville Strut" as an encore!

Dear Neighbors: A Letter to the Community

By Camptonville Volunteer Fire Dept. Firefighters

As most of you know, the house behind the school burned down on Thursday, February 22nd. Because it was early evening and in the middle of town, many of you were around to watch the progression of the incident and may have some questions about how things developed.

Camptonville School's security cameras provide an accurate timeline for the events that took place. At 7:30pm, obvious flames are suddenly visible upstairs in the north side of the second story. At 7:36pm, a resident is seen leaving the house and shortly after another resident is seen attempting to extinguish the fire with a garden hose with no effect. Less than two minutes later, brave neighbors are seen leading the residents safely away from the building.

At 7:41pm the Emergency Command Center in Grass Valley receives its first report of the fire and begins dispatching the appropriate agencies. Our dispatch pagers sound at 7:42pm, almost 13 minutes after the first active flames are visible outside of the building.

7:47pm, Chief Brandi Dudek arrives at the scene on Spring Street and determines that the house cannot be saved because of the extreme fire conditions. Knowing that other agencies are on their way, she correctly directs Camptonville's responding engine to approach through the school and be better positioned to implement the national protocol to protect public infrastructure first, then private property, and then natural resources.

Our engine arrives at 7:53pm and connects to the hydrant on Cleveland Avenue, pulls into the school grounds, and is putting water on the most critical areas by 7:55pm. We are thankful for the help we received from the Forest Service and North San Juan and Pike volunteer fire departments that helped us contain the fire to one property. Thanks also to those of you who called 911, moved cars to keep the road open, checked on and helped the distraught residents, and even pulled hose.

To anyone who would insult us, attempt to intimidate, and even make personal threats while we volunteer to protect your property, you should know that although that is unacceptable, we will continue to train and prepare and be available to help any of our neighbors and their families when an emergency arises. We encourage anyone else to consider volunteering their time as well.

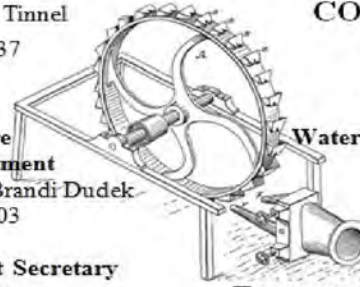

Thank you,
Your Firefighters.

New Search and Rescue Equipment for Yuba County Mounted Sheriff's Posse

By DeDe Cordell, Communications Manager, YCWA

The Yuba County Mounted Sheriff's Posse will be able to enhance its search and rescue capability in Yuba County's mountainous regions and waterways with the help of a grant from Yuba County Water Agency (YWCA). The $5,000 grant, approved by YCWA as a part of the Bill Shaw Rescue Equipment and Training Grant Program, will help the Sheriff's Posse buy contemporary, multi-unit waterproof medical first aid packs for use when searching near waterways and during wet conditions. It will also pay for upgrades to volunteers' first-aid packs.

"The Mounted Sheriff's Posse provides valuable first-aid services to some of the most remote areas in Yuba County, including YCWA's New Bullards Bar Reservoir and New Colgate Powerhouse," said YCWA Chairman Brent Haste. "We are so grateful for their quick emergency response capability, and are happy to help them do it even better with this new equipment."

This is the first agency to benefit from YCWA's Grant Program, created in January 2018. These grants are designed for first responder agencies in Yuba County. Grant funding requests must be connected to YCWA's missions of flood risk reduction, water supply reliability, hydropower generation, groundwater management, fisheries enhancement and recreation in and around New Bullards Bar.

Monkey Mind – Earth Health

By Jesse Golden

The monkey mind is a term sometimes used by the Buddha to describe the agitated, easily distracted, and incessantly moving behavior of ordinary human consciousness. As an ordinary human afflicted with monkey mind, I offer these thoughts for April.

As we celebrate Earth Day and the coming of spring, let's ask the question: how's the Earth doing? Here in the Sierra foothills, we've seen disturbing signs regarding Earth's health, including drought, record forest fires, extreme heatwaves, and massive numbers of tree deaths.

What's to be done? The climate crisis may be a non-starter on the national agenda, but cities and states are stepping forward to create solutions. The top priority should clearly be drastic reduction in the use of oil and coal. Fossil fuel use is identified¹ as the largest global source of carbon dioxide gas, which makes up a whopping 65% of greenhouse gas emissions. So the most direct path to both reducing greenhouse gases and improving public health – with air quality ranked as the leading environmental threat to public health² – is to move away from oil and coal and turn toward non-polluting alternatives.

Camptonville's service district and school will be looking at steps we can take locally to reduce fossil fuel use. Nevada City, Truckee, South Lake Tahoe, and hundreds of cities nationwide will be doing the same.

Come enjoy a family-oriented Earth Day on Sunday, April 22 at the San Juan Ridge Family Resource Center in North San Juan and look for information booths for more on how we can protect and enjoy our foothill home and our planet!

Comments? Post them on Facebook on the Monkey-Mind-the-column page.

FREE Well Assessment Program

By Linda Rose

Have you ever thought about having your well assessed? Well, you may want to consider applying for a FREE well assessment. That's what I did after seeing a small article about the opportunity offered by Rural Community Assistance Corporation (RCAC) in Nevada County's The Union newspaper. The RCAC Individual Well Program provides a free well assessment for eligible private well owners that includes an inspection for potential well vulnerabilities, potential contamination sources in close proximity to the well, and an inspection to make sure the well was constructed properly according to well construction standards. Well owners are also provided with education and resources to ensure their drinking water source remains safe and reliable.

After the inspection and well assessment is conducted, a detailed report is provided to the owner with recommendations of possible needed repairs and water treatment options, which are discussed at the time of the assessment. A Well Owners Resources Package is provided as a continuous learning resource. And, if follow up technical assistance is needed, they are there to help.

I found the one-hour assessment and inspection to be very informative and educational. I look forward to the report, which will list any recommended actions in order of importance.

For more information about RCAC, check out their website at www.rcac.org. To apply for a well assessment, click on the link to the Individual Well Program. RCAC has also scheduled a Private Well and Septic Systems Maintenance Workshop at the Madelyn Helling Library in Nevada City on April 6th, 9am – noon. I personally want to attend this workshop to learn what I need to do to ensure that my septic system and quality of my water source are, and remain, safe, reliable, and functional.

New Column from the North Yuba Naturalist blog -- A Rare Northern Goshawk!

By Katie O'Hara, northyubanaturalist.blogspot.com

This week I found a beautiful, dead, adult male Northern Goshawk in the woods. I found it face down, spread-eagled on the ground, at the base of a large Douglas Fir tree. Its neck was broken, and its beak was slightly cracked. It was large and weighty. I took tons of photos. The feathers were so finely detailed -- such beauty! These beautiful birds are uncommon and few in number in our area. I was sad that he had died. I feel so privileged to have been able to study and photograph him.

Northern Goshawks have a wingspan of 41", a body length of 21", and weigh about two pounds. They are the largest and most powerful of North American accipiters. Accipiters are hawks that are distinguished by short, broad wings and relatively long legs, adapted for fast flight in forests. Usually they rely on stealth and lightning quick strikes to catch their prey. If detected by their prey, they can chase them at tremendous speed through the forest, using their tail as a rudder! They hunt for birds, mammals, reptiles, and insects in the forest and forest clearings. They will attack while in flight, from a perch, or on the ground. They catch their prey with their feet.

Their preferred nesting habitat is mature old-growth forests, with a 60% closed canopy, and in close proximity to a creek, pond, or lake. Nesting begins in February or March. A large stick nest is built, mainly by the female, on the largest, lowest branches of a mature conifer. The nest is approximately 3'-4' long, 1.6'-2.2' wide, and 2' tall. The interior cup is lined with leaves and strips of bark, and is 9" long and 3" wide. The Cornell Lab of Ornithology states, "Northern Goshawk pairs build and maintain up to eight alternate nests within their nesting area. Even with options available, they may use the same nest year after year, or may switch to a new nest after a brood fails. Pairs may add fresh conifer needles to the nest during breeding. Aromatic chemicals (terpenes) in the needles may act as a natural insecticide and fungicide." Surprisingly, Northern Goshawks do not mate for life!

Spring in the Yuba River Ranger District

By Izaya Lewis, USFS Customer Service Rep.

Don't let these snow and rainstorms fool you - spring has sprung! The first day of spring was March 20th and it's time to gear up for another year of fun in the sun.

On April 15th Bullards Bar Recreation area will be open for hiking, horseback riding, mountain biking, and camping. To reserve a campsite at Bullards Bar, call Emerald Cove Marina at 530-692-3200 or go to their website: bullardsbar.com.

Also opening up this month are the Fiddle Creek Ridge Trails, Halls Ranch, and the 1st, 2nd, and 3rd divide trails for mountain biking and hiking.

If you decide to take advantage of our beautiful weather, keep in mind that weather can change like the flip of a switch. Make sure to think ahead and dress appropriately for the activity. Monitor weather and above all else: be aware and be prepared!

Ronny Gale Boggs

Ronny Gale Boggs passed away at age 71 on March 13, 2018 in Nevada City, surrounded by his loving family. He was born in Yuma, Arizona July 29, 1946 to Clifton and Alford Vohnell (Eccles) Boggs.

Ron was a master carpenter, a craft taught to him by his father that he in turn taught to his oldest son, Shawn Boggs. Together Ron and Shawn worked on commercial and residential construction in Arizona, Nevada, and California for over 25 years. They specialized in restoring historic structures in Virginia City and Grass Valley in the later part of Ron's career.

Ron got his first taste of placer gold mining in the early 1970s. This became a lifelong hobby and passion, spending many vacations on the Middle and North Yuba Rivers. He and his family settled in Camptonville in 2002, enjoying life in the Sierra foothills and gold dredging on their mining claim on the North Yuba River.

Ron was preceded in death by his wife of 44 years, Merlene E. (Koch) Boggs, and his brother, Clifton Steve Boggs. He is survived by his children: Shawn Steven Boggs, Ron Clifton Boggs, and Krista Boggs-Piot, step daughter Cinde Best, and beloved dog Frodo. Ron spent the last six years of his life in a loving relationship with Kim Koons of Nevada City. He will be greatly missed by all who knew him.

Indian Valley Outpost Update

By Karla Gardner

Hey there Friends and Neighbors! Time to shake off the old winter blues. Your favorite backyard vacation destination is re-opening for the 2018 season, beginning with weekends, on Friday, May 25th, at 8am. From July 2nd - September 5th, we will be open seven days a week. The restaurant will open at 11am for lunch. Dinner is from 4:30 - 8pm.

We will no longer offer breakfast, but our "Best Burger Ever!" will be served all day. We will still have a salad and burger bar, homemade soup and pie and specials as well as our delicious dinner dishes. The Pub will be open 8am to 9pm or game over. The store will also be open 8am to 9pm for all of your beer, ice, firewood, and camping supplies.

Check our website for lodging availability for RV sites, cabins, and tepees. Come on out for some old fashioned fun and bring your lawn chairs to see free outdoor movies on Friday and Saturday nights. Movies are listed on our web site: www.indianvalleyoutpostresort.com
