Dear Readers,

As a “voice of the community,” The Courier’s goal is to publish content that educates, informs, inspires, and entertains. I have no problem filling the pages with “left brain” logical, linear, and academic contributions. But I want balance!

So I’m inviting you to tap into your “right brain” and send me your creative words, art, doodles, poetry, stories, photography, and paintings. I’m not asking for professional or polished. Just send me what you love doing. If the recent “Creative Words Party” is any indication, our community is bubbling with people who want to share what they’ve created. Let me hear from you! Send your works to: camptonvillecourier@gmail.com.

We are always looking for new local artisans and gardeners to participate. If you have items to sell but cannot be there to sell them, you can drop them off, and I will sell them for you. The cost to sell is 10% of your total sales. If you are interested in participating in this year’s market and have questions, please feel free to contact me at christinaledson@gmail.com or 288-3655. You do not need to be there every week.

Yuba River Ranger District – Residential Debris Burning Suspended

By Izaya Lewis, Customer Service Representative

All permits for residential debris burning have been SUSPENDED until further notice. You may no longer burn your piles; however, you may still have BBQs or campfires on your personal property, but remember to have adequate clearance and stay in attendance at all times.

A friendly reminder: as we approach the prime months of fire season, please ensure you still have defensible space, and if you build burn piles, make sure to stack them away from your home. Make sure your roof is clear of pine needles and leaves. Most structures burn as a result of embers finding their way into eaves, vents, and roofs, not from the actual flaming front. Other tips: remove your winter wood piles from near your home and ensure you have a visible address sign for a more rapid response from fire and rescue personnel.

Fireworks are not allowed in or adjacent to the Tahoe National Forest. Please do your part to keep our community safe by watching them at an approved venue. So far, the Tahoe National Forest has not gone into Campfire Restrictions, but stay advised and contact our local office for the most current Fire Restrictions and Fire Danger Levels. Thank you for your cooperation, and as always, for more fire safety information, you can visit www.fire.ca.gov or contact Jessica Prince at the Yuba River Ranger District Office at 288-3231.

Purdon's Crossing Concert at the Center – July 14th

By Jesse Golden

Please come and enjoy Purdon's Crossing (the band, not the bridge), playing fun and upbeat music on Saturday, July 14th, 7:30 pm at the Camptonville Community Center.

Purdon's Crossing (the band not the bridge) are four musicians playing a kaleidoscopic array of musical styles and instruments: sometimes hilarious, sometimes beautiful, always entertaining. Check out their videos on Facebook, and consider coming dressed in your favorite vest, suspenders, or jaunty fedora. You won't be bored!

Running Group in Camptonville!

By Maddie G. Miller

Summer is here and I'm inviting you all once again to join me on my runs at the Camptonville School track at 9 am on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Whether you're a long time runner, someone inspired to make a change, or even just wanting to walk, come and join in on the super awesome community fitness support. All ages welcome! My two consistent running partners are middle school kiddos and we have an awesome time.

If you have hardly ever run and are nervous about starting, I would love to help you get on an interval running program which starts out nice and easy and builds every week to get you to running 30 minutes non-stop, or up to a 5K. It's three days a week, 30 minutes each session with varying walking/running intervals. It's free and even has a convenient app!

I know it works because my running partner and I have completed the program ourselves and are now working on running a 10K!

If you've run a 5K but want to work towards the 10K, please think of joining us. My running partner and I are hoping to at least do somewhat well on the Hot Shot Half Marathon later this year.

We'll start running at 9 am on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays for about an hour depending on what conversations we get into and what program we're on. It's early enough to beat the heat and keep you motivated throughout the day. Hope to see some of you out there!

The BLACK Widow Cabin

By Lester Wolfe

Traveling up Moonshine Road about 100 yards after you crossed Little Willow Creek, off to the right was an old run-down log cabin alongside our irrigation ditch. Seeing as how our place at that time was a patented mining claim, I'm assuming the ditch was there first and the cabin later, perhaps due to the convenience of the water.

The cabin had one fairly large room, one sagging door, and three or four glassless windows. The story was that the cabin was once owned by a woman who poisoned her husband, thus the name "Black Widow Cabin." I'm not sure a woman ever lived there or when the story started.

The name "Black Widow" added a little intrigue to the cabin, and for a few years it became, from time to time, a place to hang out for me and my friends who included Wayne Stoddard, Gene and Everett Woods, and Don and Richard Crawford.

Eventually, time took its toll, and as the cabin started to collapse, it became a hazard. My dad and I helped Mother Nature along by burning the rubble that was left.

The pruning shears of time not only reshape us mere mortals but also the good earth. No longer is there a Black Widow Cabin. It exists only in the minds of those young boys, now elderly men, who played there and speculated on what the Black Widow may have looked like and how many husbands she poisoned, all in the imagination of young boys, need I say more. Also, there is probably little or no evidence of the irrigation ditch that provided water for the cabin as well as the old mining claim.

BLACK Bears

- Ursus americanus

By Katie O'Hara-Kelly,
North Yuba Naturalist

There are so many cherry trees in my neighborhood, and the cherries are starting to ripen. Two mornings in a row, a big Black Bear has been climbing the trees right next to our house to eat the cherries. He's broken lots of branches in the process. Earlier this week, the same bear tried to break into our garden shed where we had stashed a bag of garbage. Luckily we were able to scare him off! Another bear broke into a neighbor's car and did a lot of damage. In Downieville, bears have been known to open unlocked car doors to get to food. Bears are super strong, smart, and resourceful. It's important to keep garbage out of vehicles and in a secure storage area. If a bear becomes too accustomed to human food, it can become a real problem for residents. It may also lead to the bear's demise, as problem bears are occasionally euthanized by the Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Three bears have been seen lately in my neighborhood, and one of them is a tiny cub that I hope to see. Black Bears are omnivores, but mainly eat insects, grubs, fruit, berries, roots, twigs, buds, honey, and tree cambium. They will occasionally eat carrion when it is available. They range in size from 203-587 pounds, as adults. Adults can run up to 30 mph and are powerful swimmers and climbers. I was amazed at how quickly this bear climbed down the cherry tree and ran off, once it saw me. It was gone and out of sight in mere seconds. Wow!

Black Bear mating season is from June through early July. The cubs are born approximately six months later, sometime in January to early February. The litters range from 1-5 cubs, but 2-3 cubs is the usual size. The cubs weigh 7 ounces when they are born and will nurse their mother while she is still hibernating. When the cubs emerge in spring they weigh 4.5 to 11 lbs. They are totally weaned at 6-8 months, but stay with their mother through the next winter, until they are around 17 months old. Female Black Bears do not tolerate adult males except during their brief mating season. They raise their young on their own.

Secondary Spillway Plans for Bullards Bar Dam

By Alex Boesch, Public Information Specialist, YCWA

A significant reduction in flood risk and enhancements to dam safety are in the works for Yuba County. Yuba County Water Agency (YCWA) approved moving forward with the environmental documentation, permitting, and design of a secondary spillway at New Bullards Bar Dam.

The construction of an estimated $160 million secondary spillway will increase water release capabilities in preparation for major storm events, ultimately creating additional room for inflows in the reservoir. This will decrease flood risk downstream, including the areas of Marysville, Linda, Olivehurst, Plumas Lake, and Yuba City.

"New Bullards Bar Dam is already in great shape," said YCWA General Manager Curt Aikens. "This enhancement will help even more. Especially after Oroville, we know more than ever how important it is to have redundancy with a secondary option for releases in case of an emergency."

As a result of the major flood in 1997, Yuba County Water Agency initiated a series of studies, completed in 2002, to identify future projects to reduce the region's flood risk. One such project was a plan to increase the release capability of New Bullards Bar Reservoir by constructing a secondary spillway.

The 2016 feasibility study considered various alternatives and determined a secondary spillway with the lowest water release point 31.5 feet lower than the existing spillway to be the best option to accomplish the agency's goals at the lowest cost with the least negative environmental impact.

The feasibility phase of the project is estimated to wrap up in 2021, with construction beginning in 2022 and is estimated to take approximately three years to build. Both cost and schedule are rough estimates at this time, and expected to be much more clearly defined as the project is further designed.

An additional benefit of the secondary spillway is the redundancy of an alternate for water releases in case of a problem with the primary spillway. The secondary spillway would, on its own, be able to manage releases from the reservoir in a 1-in-260 year storm event without exceeding the maximum pool elevation. Additional benefits include a reduction in ecosystem damages from flooding and enhanced overall flood system flexibility and resiliency.

These enhancements are just one part of the agency's overall strategy to significantly reduce flood risk in the region. Other efforts have included partnering with local agencies on the Feather River Setback Levee and the Marysville Ring Levee, among others. As a result of these efforts, the south Yuba County and Marysville area is slated to become one of the first regions in California to reach the state's requirement for 200-year levee certification in urban areas.

The agency has been preparing financially, saving to help pay for the costs of major infrastructure improvements, including the secondary spillway. Costs for the field investigation, environmental documentation, permitting, and design of the secondary spillway are estimated at $11 million.

CVFD had a very busy month with 19 page outs including 2 motor vehicle accidents, 11 medicals, 2 assists, 1 smoke check, 1 structure fire (in Brownsville) and 2 vegetation fires. This is an all-time record for CVFD.

Our roster is up to 17 firefighters, including 2 new recruits and 3 probational firefighters.

We are always looking for volunteers. Training is Tuesday evenings from 6-9 pm, with one Wednesday per month in North San Juan for medical training. Stop by and check us out. All training will be provided at no cost.

Volunteers do not have to become firefighters; we also need support staff to help with paperwork, maintenance at the station, and other non-firefighter projects. If you are interested in donating time and being part of a great team, feel free to give your chief a call at 288-3303.

Current Thoughts: Lower Yuba River Accord, A Win-Win-Win

By Brent Hastey, Yuba County Water Agency Board Chairman

May 2018 officially marked 10 successful years of the Lower Yuba River Accord, a statewide model settlement agreement between 18 different agencies, with many different interests and needs, all working together to make the Yuba River better.

The Lower Yuba River Accord improves conditions for salmon and steelhead in the Yuba River, provides funding to reduce the risk of flooding for the people of Yuba County, protects water rights for local farmers and ranchers, and provides critical water supplies during a drought year for communities throughout California. It is literally a win-win-win.

Getting this deal done was no small feat. After nearly two decades of controversy and fighting in and out of the courtroom, Yuba County Water Agency led competing interests to a consensus, showing that collaboration can truly work when different agencies are willing to sit down and hash out their differences.

And it is working today. Since implementation of the Accord, the water temperature of the Yuba River during the summer and early fall is typically 7 to 15 degrees cooler than other rivers in the region. Some of the water that is released for the benefit of the fish can be sold to downstream communities in need, and that revenue comes right back to YCWA to pay the local cost of our major levee improvements in Yuba County, which have us on track to be the first community in California to reach the state's requirement for 200-year levee certification in urban areas. There are way too many other accomplishments to list them all, but there's a video on our website that goes into more specifics if you're interested.

Reflecting back on the 10 years of success, a couple of things stand out. The Accord has proven to be a durable solution that can withstand the test of time, and every single organization involved had a leader at the table, someone willing to find a way to make it work until the final deal was done.

Without every single one of those important leaders, the end result may have been completely different, or perhaps the whole deal would have even fallen apart. But they stuck it out, fought through the challenges, and made something great happen.

We recently hosted an event celebrating the success of the Lower Yuba River Accord, and it was great to have so many of the original players and the Who's Who in California water attend. I cannot tell you the pride I felt at hearing so many power players in the water world repeatedly say how Yuba County Water Agency was setting a high bar and had developed a model that should be replicated, both for water management as we face more extreme weather patterns, and for solving complex water problems in California (are there any other kind?).

We certainly live in an unusually divisive time, where understanding and even public discourse have really taken a hit. So, I can't tell you how refreshing it is to have the Accord remind us that collaboration is something to be embraced. It's not a dirty word! Reasonable people can come together with a focus on their interests and find science-based approaches that work for everyone. I can only hope with the many challenges we have ahead of us that we will see more of this in the years to come.

Keeping Quiet

– By Pablo Neruda

*For once on the face of the earth, let's not speak in any language;
let's stop for one second,
and not move our arms so much.*

*It would be an exotic moment
without rush, without engines;
we would all be together
in a sudden strangeness.*

*Fisherman in the cold sea
would not harm whales
and the man gathering salt would not look at his hurt hands.*

*Those who prepare green wars,
wars with gas, wars with fire,
victories with no survivors,
would put on clean clothes
and walk about with their brothers in the shade, doing nothing.*

*Perhaps the earth can teach us
as when everything seems dead and later proves to be alive.*

– Excerpt from Keeping Quiet

Poetry, Song, and Creative Word Party

By Shirley DickKard

The inaugural seasonal event took place at the Camptonville Community Center on June 20th. An appreciative audience heard readings from Yakshi's new book, Feminine Face of God, and Will Staple's Arrows Go Through Hearts, interspersed with music by Cheryl Zatuchni, rap by Fable, and short creative readings from the audience. You can purchase these books at The Open Book bookstore in Grass Valley, on Amazon, or from Yakshi herself. For information on the next Creative Words event this fall, contact Yakshi at 288-0619.

Fable and Cheryl Z

*Lo the body and the soul
This land
Lo the violet
She bravely calls in spring
Lo the coming eve
So delicious
Sinking skies
So delicious*

Fatty's Food Truck – Stop In, Roll Slow, Sit, and Eat!

By Pastor Pinkie Rideau

You may have noticed that since we have had construction and tree trimming on the roads, there has been a food truck sitting on the side of the road. I saw them, did you? Didn't know what it was for. I thought maybe it was there for the road construction guys. I was wrong.

Traveling north on Hwy 49, you will find a Taco Truck just beyond Marysville Road on the right hand side. Fatty's Fine Foods is the idea of longtime Camptonville local, Fatty Querequincia (kereh-keen-see-ya). His recipes are absolutely fantastic. I've had the Pork Adobo Taco and the Chicken Taco, and they are amazing! Custom sauces and meat, covered in two kinds of cabbage and cheese makes it healthy and tasty – all at the same time. Fatty serves up lunch, and his niece, Lynn Coppock, serves up breakfast (when she's not out on a call with the Camptonville Volunteer Fire Department). They serve it all up with a smile!

Fatty and Lynn are parked there from Thursday through Saturday, except when they are catering or are parked at Rebel Ridge Organics. Check their daily menu and location on Facebook under "Eric Querequincia." Stop in, roll slow, sit, and eat. Eat some more. Tell them Pastor Pinkie sent you! :) This does not earn me free tacos, darn it. Love, Peace, Happyness and Music! One Love Ya'll, Pastor Pinkie.

Do you have Life Flight Insurance?

By Brandi Dudek, CVFD Chief

If you get in a car accident or have a major medical issue such as a heart attack, where time is of the essence, you may be flown by air ambulance to a trauma center or a hospital. A helicopter ride could cost you in excess of $25,000.

First Responders in our area do not get the option of which air ambulance will be dispatched. It could be AirMedCare or Enloe FlightCare. So my recommendation is to have BOTH of these emergency air flight plans:

- AirMedCare/Reach: www.AirMedCareNetwork.com
Phone: 877-870-3315. Annual Membership is $85/household; $65/Seniors.
- Enloe FlightCare: www.enloe.org/services-and-treatments/emergency-services/flightcare/flightcare-membership-program. Phone: 530-332-6774.
Annual Membership is $40/individual; $50 family.

Sign Up to Get Emergency Alerts on Your Cell Phone

By Shirley DickKard

In event of a wildfire emergency, you will get an alert on your landline by Yuba County Office of Emergency Services (OES). But if you're one of the growing number of folks with only a cell phone, you won't get notified unless you link your cell phones into the CodeRED Emergency Notification System. It's easy to do.

Register your cell phone number at www.BePreparedYuba.org. Click on "Stay Connected," follow instructions, and your mobile phone will be connected to this system. The website also provides up-to-date information on current emergencies, evacuations, river levels, road closures, shelters, wildfires, as well as preparation advice. For information, call the Yuba County OES at 530-749-7520.

Grant Helps Local Fire District Purchase Thermal Imagers for Search and Rescue

By Alex Boesch, Public Information Specialist, YCWA

The Dobbins-Oregon House Fire Protection District will be able to better search for victims lost in the Yuba County foothills with the help of a $5,000 grant from Yuba County Water Agency (YCWA) to help purchase new thermal imagers. Thermal imagers utilize an infrared camera to allow emergency responders to see areas of heat, such as a person, through smoke, darkness, or heat-permeable barriers.

Funding is from YCWA's Bill Shaw Rescue Equipment and Training Grant Program. This program is designed for first responder agencies in Yuba County to purchase rescue equipment or specialized personnel training, and must be connected to YCWA's mission.

Purdon's Crossing (the Band not the Bridge) plays a kaleidoscopic array of musical styles and instruments; sometimes hilarious, sometimes beautiful, always entertaining. In their genre-defying quest to explore jazz, blues, bluegrass, country, Americana, and vintage jazz tunes, PLUS pithy originals, Purdon's Crossing (the band) never ceases to amuse. Four lead singers, beautiful harmonies, instruments too numerous to mention. You won't be bored!
