

Hepatitis C and Drug User Health Skills-based Conference

Clinicians who provide healthcare to people who use drugs face mounting uncertainty in their daily work. Science misinformation and federal funding cuts prevent them from providing the best care possible, while health insurance coverage limitations and siloed behavioral health services restrict people who use drugs from accessing lifesaving treatment.

Apply to join CEI's first in-person skills-based conference to cultivate new skills and partnerships to improve and expand access to care for people who use drugs and/or are impacted by hepatitis C virus infection in New York.

CONFERENCE REGISTRATION IS FREE!

The interactive agenda includes workshops to help New York's clinicians:

- Evaluate and address misinformation related to addiction medicine and harm reduction in clinical and public health settings
- Develop and apply innovative, practical strategies to maintain and expand healthcare access for people who use drugs
- Demonstrate effective interdisciplinary collaboration in public health advocacy
- Identify and implement strategies that support clinician wellness and strengthen patient care

Attendance is limited to MD, DO, PA, NP and PharmD licensed and practicing in New York State.*

We invite highly motivated clinicians who can commit to active participation in advance of, during and after the two-day program to apply.
