Please note that there are currently no harmonised EU Regulations for wood-based products.

Specific analyses for Pentachlorophenol and Formaldehyde show as Not Detected

Restrictions upon use:

This product is suitable for all hot and cold foods intended for human consumption within the temperature range -20 to +50C. (These restrictions are based on the natural tendency for wood to deform when in contact with hot liquids and is not a consequence of migration data.)

The products are disposable and for single use and are not intended for long term storage.

There are no post consumer recycled materials used in the manufacture of this product.
