

Alleluias!! concentrated:

enabling expansive worship in small membership congregations

Paul Detterman

“If we only had / could...” can be too common a phrase in smaller membership congregations. God invites us to worship as we can, not as we can't. This session is designed to equip and encourage even the smallest congregation (or small group within a larger community) to desire and to experience deep, joy-filled worship using everything God has given us and requiring nothing more.

remembering why Jesus' followers sing when we worship fulfilling our biblical mandate to sing offering God-worthy praise glorifying God beyond words and deeds alone witnessing to the reality of our faith connecting the generations receiving the witness of those who have gone before us transmitting our faith to those who are following us discipling Jesus' followers through singing in worship

(remembering why Jesus' followers sing ...)

discovering the “heart songs” what gives these hymns/worship songs such meaning?

what faith do these texts express?

connecting the dots—deepening faith and broadening repertoire catechetical singing liberating

worship from keys, pipes, circuits, or strings gone wrong

(remembering why Jesus' followers sing ...)

naming the perils of "bad" accompaniment renouncing Lucifer's love child: accompaniment CDs exploring alternatives the joy of call and response the beauty of part singing the thrill of unison singing releasing

God's people to worship and praise

(remembering why Jesus' followers sing ...)

allowing worshipers to hear themselves nurturing the anticipation of "an experience" teaching the language of music challenging worshipers to self-less praise exploring

a sampling of the almost limitless worship music resources

(remembering why Jesus' followers sing ...)

nurturing long-term relationships—hymns that beg to be sung "just as they are" permitting second marriages—familiar texts re-trothed to more flexible tunes going global—discovering what the rest of the world already knows about worship taking a chance on chants—simply repeating things simply praying

... and "praying twice"

(remembering why Jesus' followers sing ...)
