After breakfast, Grandma put on sunscreen, a diving suit, flippers, a lead belt, and a mask.

Dayeon put on sunscreen, a suit, flippers, goggles, and a snorkel.

Grandma carried her tools to pluck treasures from the sea.
Dayeon carried hers to pluck treasures from the shore.
Together, they sang a haenyeo song.

"I eat wind instead of rice ... take the waves as my home."

Dayeon set her bucket on a flat rock and looked at the sea. She gulped.
“What if I can’t breathe? What if a shark comes? What if I can’t escape?”

Grandma sang, “Can’t you hear what the waves are saying? They’re calling to us to come home.”

Dayeon swam right back up.
