

With so many people gearing up to race out of the city for Memorial Day Weekend (the official kickoff to summer), the residential buildings with on-site parking are in high demand. With elegant porte cocheres, landscaped motor courts and dedicated parking spaces for residents, these buildings make it easy to store your car and make a quick getaway for your weekend plans.

200 East 83rd

200 East 83rd, a condo tower designed by Robert A.M. Stern Architects, celebrates the architectural romance of Manhattan's Upper East Side. The nearly sold-out 35-story residential tower offers its residents expansive views of Central Park and the Midtown skyline as well as access to several coveted amenities, including a vaulted porte cochere.

Image Credit: DBOX

Residents are welcomed by a gated porte cochere with cobblestone paving and custom wall lanterns that open into a private courtyard. Behind the gates of the porte cochere is a car elevator to a fully automated and concealed underground parking system allowing for total privacy.