

Finding Moments of Joy During the Holidays

Presented by Amy Matthews, Dementia Coach for General Community & Family Caregiver Talks, Professional Education, and Staff In-Services

The holidays can be a stressful time for anyone. For those who care for someone with dementia, this time of year has an element of added stress.

Join us for a program to learn ways you can adapt holiday traditions to include the individual with dementia, both at home and in a community. You'll leave with helpful tools and strategies to engage your loved one.
