

Writing Dissertation Literature Review for Entrepreneurial Business Management

Dr. Nancy Agens, Head,
Technical Operations, Tutorsindia
info@tutorsindia.com

In Brief

The literature review is a broad summary of the full dissertation. It reviews surveys scholarly articles, books and other resources which are relevant to a particular study for research by identifying past studies in entrepreneurial business management. In short, a Literature review writing service provides a critical assessment of the sources you have gathered from a different source and then identifies a gap in that literature that your research will attempt to address. To get a useful dissertation literature review help on entrepreneurial business management, you need to have a fair idea of what sources you would like to review.

1. Keep the topic simple:

Entrepreneurship is the consistent process. It plays a serious role in economic development and brings significant changes in the economies of the market. The foremost step in writing a literature review is to select the topic for your research. Start the selection process by thinking about the area of interest within the subject. The significant challenge in writing the dissertation process lies in choosing a dissertation topic. You'll make your work more manageable if you limit the scope of your work. Literature review, you should state what the focus of your work will be.

2. Board your research area:

Entrepreneurial business management subject is too broad to pick a research area. It consists of various research area where it needs basic research. Selecting a broad research area will help you to find more source relevant to the chosen topic. Literature review writing helps you at the next stage of your writing. If you want to start as many ideas as possible, you should narrow down your point of focus at one point that you identified by analyzing the research.

If you broad your research area, you may find relevant literature to your research question. For example, take the topic entrepreneur business management and choose a topic that needs basic research that maybe something like, for example, the impact of staff customer relationship on organizational performance. Both of this area is not related to your research question but will help you to have ground knowledge about the topic and help you to find the research gap in the subject.

3. Use the right keyword search:

The keyword research is the activity of analyzing, finding a list of valuable keywords that helps you to lead the direction of your content. Select the keywords that should cover the target readers only then it will make an effort to attract them. But two or more keywords on the same field of the subject have different search volume, trends. Literature review writing service the UK assist you in choosing more relevant keywords to your research that will help you get a better research gap. The primary issue is to find the source pertinent to your study. Your keywords should be well defined and targeted explicitly to the research papers you are looking.

To make your literature review dissertation more focused on the field, you selected, use keywords that you intend to use in your paper. It will indicate the relevance of those similar terms in your area of study. If you are conducting your search and need to make the search more specific in the field of study, enclose your keywords in double quotation marks. That will help you retrieve the pages that contain the words you mentioned. Essay literature review service provides expert service specific to your stream to offer you to find the gap in the selected stream and help to work out with the quality of literature.

LITERATURE REVIEW PROCESS ORGANIZATION CHART

4. Explore the relevant articles:

If you find any relevant article to your keywords, explore them in-depth to get a ground knowledge on your study to develop your research. Having a small number of reference will help you to obtain a short but comprehensive list of articles that you can explore with great details. There is no need to be selective and constantly worry that you may have excluded an article that could later turn out to be of utmost importance to your study. Besides, there are few sources in your specific research area; then it is possible to many fundamental questions haven't answered yet. It is the case literature review services help you, to find limitations in the existing literature and use them to build or enhance your research question.

5. Follow the citations of the articles:

Citations direct readers to future research in your specific field. By adding other relevant in your research, you are acknowledging the other articles that you have used as a source. If you find a couple of relevant articles, you could look at the reference lists of these articles. It is one way of finding more relevant articles about your area of study and is known as a backward search. Then, you could also check the articles that have cited the papers you initially found. It is known as forward-searching and could help you find articles that are not accessible through your keyword search. All this step will help you to build on the reference with the information you already gathered. Literature review thesis service assists you in getting a quality dissertation writing to get good grades in your academic.

6. Ask experts help:

If you are stuck while reviewing the literature, it is because of the lack of previously published research papers that hold you back. Literature review services will help you when you feel it challenging to find relevant literature in your research on entrepreneurial business management. You should always ask yourself what else is relevant? This question will help you in a situation, that have need to identify all possible areas that could be linked to your research question and shortlist those relevant to your paper. Academic writing literature review service will help you either find references or build the research on the article you selected.

It is essential to summarize the vital aspects of the existing body of the literature review. It is needed to state the significant flaws and gap in the literature review. Research paper literature review provides an outline area of future research.

REFERENCES

1. Randolph, J. (2009). A guide to writing the dissertation literature review. Practical Assessment, Research, and Evaluation, 14(1), 13.
2. Kucan, L. (2011). Approximating the practise of writing the dissertation literature review. Literacy Research and Instruction, 50(3), 229-240.
3. Kraus, S., Breier, M., & Dasí-Rodríguez, S. (2020). The art of crafting a systematic literature review in entrepreneurship research. International Entrepreneurship and Management Journal, 1-20.