

Granting Guidelines

Connect for Global Change

Co-funded by the European Union

Please note: The rules and requirements outlined in this document may vary by region. Grantees should refer to the specific guidelines provided by the national Connect for Global Change partner in their respective country for accurate information.

Connect for Global Change seeks to develop an inclusive society where more EU citizens have a sense of co-responsibility to address sustainable development and global challenges. This is done by subgranting small and medium-sized civil society organisations' global citizenship education and awareness raising projects in eleven EU countries.

Granting guidelines explained

Purpose	All actions granted must be in line with the purpose of the support facility; or in other words, the change wanted in the action (project) will be a contribution to the aim of the facility.
Principle	Issues (values, ethical concerns) which actions should not be contradictory to and which are sometimes (if stated) reflected in requirements or assessment criteria.
Requirements	Issues that must be met by an action or by the applicant(s) in order for the application to be eligible. Eg. that organisations must have existed for one year.
Selection criteria/assessment criteria	Actions can live up to these to a lesser or greater extent. If applicants apply for a smaller amount they and the action will not have to live up to these criteria to the same extent as an application for a larger amount. These criteria will correspond one-to-one with the criteria in the evaluation grid. The actions are scored on each criteria which makes it possible to compare actions between each other in order for us to grant the best actions.

Purpose

The proposed actions must contribute to the purpose of the support facility which is:

Empower, engage, and connect EU citizens, and in particular youth and those less sensitive to and less involved with global challenges, to take shared responsibility to create a more inclusive, equal, and sustainable world.

Purpose described:

Approaches and methodologies used in the proposed action shall increase awareness, critical understanding, and meaningful engagement in global challenges. The applicant has a responsibility to make it possible for the target group to engage, act, and/or critically reflect on development challenges.

- Meaningful engagement: EU citizens must be enabled to engage in a practical manner with the proposed action and contribute to it as a supporter, activist, multiplier or innovator (see the engagement pyramid in the toolkit)

The action is assessed on its ability to motivate the target group to meaningfully engage (move up in the engagement pyramid (see the toolkit) from supporter to the levels of activist, multiplier or innovator).

- Promote critical understanding: EU citizens must be empowered to take a position and critically reflect on the issues promoted by the action. When critical understanding or thinking is promoted it means that target groups take defensible positions, reflect, analyse, evaluate different ideas and positions. It is demonstrated through the target group's ability to express informed responses and independent thought.

The action is assessed on its ability to motivate the target group to be critically aware of the issues presented by the action.

- Global challenges have to be part of the actions if we are to create a more inclusive, equal, and sustainable world. Global challenges refer to urgent topics and agendas related to EU partner countries, development cooperation and promoting Sustainable Development Goals. The actions can focus on topics such as social and environmental justice, gender equality and inclusion, or other topics related to the Sustainable Development Goals. The variety of topics is large but they have in common that they are of global relevance.

Principles

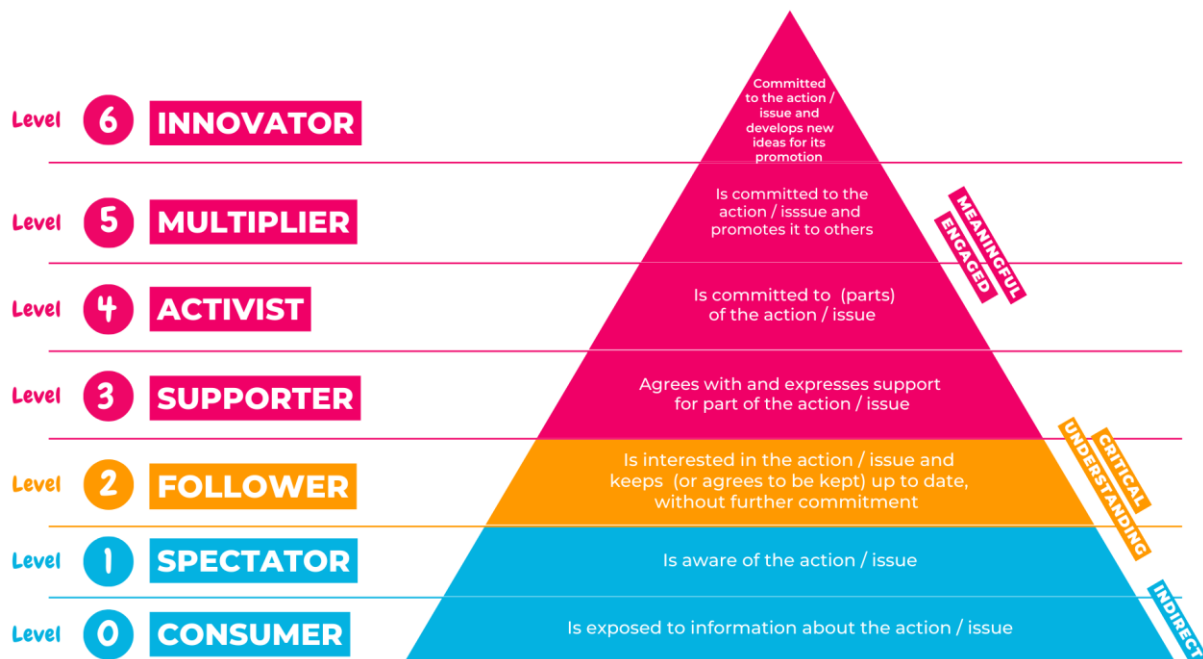

The following principles are seen as the basis for well-designed awareness raising and engagement work and actions,

- Know your target group of EU citizens: A thorough knowledge of your target group is a prerequisite for reaching these people with knowledge, and opportunities to act. The action's methods must be adapted to the target group and must be based on knowledge of their local context, and what interests, and motivates them.
In practice, this means that the applicants are assessed on the extent to which the applicants have specific knowledge of the target group, access to it and is expected to be able to include them in the development of the action (assessment criteria 2).

- Involve the people who it is about: The proposed action must involve people touched by the impact of the global challenges, as actors, narrators, participants and/or collaborators in a qualified and ethical sense. When involving these people applicants can benefit and develop existing relations with them. Meaning in an equal, constructive, and respectful way. In practice, this means that the application is assessed on the extent to which people and/or actors from the communities impacted by the global challenges have or will have a central role in the proposed action (assessment criteria 3).
- Cooperate with relevant stakeholders: Cooperation makes you stronger. Civil society organisations, youth organisations, networks, informal groups, movements, local authorities, educational institutions, etc. should work together, complement each other and through partnerships across disciplines engage more EU citizens. In practice, this means that it strengthens a proposed action if the applicant is part of a partnership (assessment criteria 3).
- Be gender transformative: Proposed actions must take into consideration opportunities for individuals and society to actively challenge gender norms. Promote positions of social and political influence for women and those people affected by intersecting or multiple discriminations, such as racism, LGBTQIIA+ phobia, ableism, social class, etc. in communities, and/or address power inequities between people of different gender identities and discrimination from an intersectional gender perspective. In practice this means that the applicant should describe in the application how the proposed action relates to gender equality and gender transformative, rights-based and/or intersectional approaches in its design, planning and implementation (assessment criteria 4).
- Be innovative: Trying something new to improve impact is a good idea. When we experiment and get new ideas, try new ways to do things we can create new results and improve our practices. To be innovative is to improve and make better results. In practice, this means that the applicant must include learnings from completed activities or actions carried out by the applicant(s) to ensure that the action is not a repetition of past activities and to ensure that new ideas are reflected in the objectives and approaches applied.
- Involve youth: Youth can be effective change-makers if given proper opportunities to participate and act - and they have the right to be heard and have influence on the development of the world. Involvement of youth is key. Youth is considered to be all people younger than 30 years and older than 15 years. Youth organisations, networks, movements and informal groups are led by younger people and/or are aiming solely at involving people younger than 30 years. In practice this means that the action is assessed on the extent to which it is co-created by and/or developed for young people and promotes collaboration with youth entities (assessment criteria 2).

Definition chapters

- Engagement pyramid: The applicant must describe in the application how the proposed action takes the point of departure in the Engagement Pyramid - shown in the visual below, and has to explain how it moves the target group(s) from one level to the next level in the pyramid.

- People less sensitive and less involved with the global challenges are identifiable groups in society that possess certain characteristics that either reduce their sensitivity or decrease their involvement in global challenges. The less sensitive and less involved are people who have not taken a position on global development or who have no special knowledge of it. They can easily have a great deal of knowledge about other matters and be deeply engaged in other subjects. And also be neither for nor against global development but their opinion can go either way. Less sensitive are normally part of a larger target group related to age, education level, financial situation, socio-professional field, Internet use, political orientation, socio-professional categories, therefore in order to reach the target group and the less sensitives, it is important to have in-depth knowledge of their interests, values and skills. Organisations that focus on these target groups should provide an explanation why they consider their target group less sensitive and less involved.

Who can apply for funding? Requirements concerning the applying organisations

Actions can include the following actors:

- Lead applicant: the lead applicant has to meet the eligibility criteria referred to in the next paragraph. If awarded the grant contract, the lead organisation will become the main interlocutor of the national Connect for Global Change partner. It represents and acts on behalf of the co-applicant(s) (if any) and coordinates the design and implementation of the Action. The lead applicant must sign the “Declaration by the third party” of the grant application form.
- Co-applicant(s): a co-applicant has to meet the eligibility criteria referred to in the next paragraph. It participates in designing and implementing the Action, and the costs it incurs are eligible in the same way as those incurred by the lead applicant. Co-applicant(s) must sign the “Declaration by Applicant” of the grant application form.
- Associate(s): any other organisations/institutions involved in the action. Such associates play a real role as a stakeholder in the action but may not receive funding from the grant. Associates do not have to meet the eligibility criteria referred to in the next paragraph, they must be clearly mentioned in the grant application form, they have to formally declare their participation (e.g. with a letter of interest) but they do not have to sign the “Declaration by Applicant”
- Contractors: lead organisation and partner organisation(s) are permitted to award contracts. Associates cannot also be contractors in the Action. Contractors are subject to the procurement rules set out in the Practical guide on contract procedures for European Union external action (PRAG) and they must not be indicated in the grant application form, but selected once the grant contract is awarded.

Lead applicants and co-applicants must

- be a legal person
- be officially existing as a non-profit organisation
- be a Civil Society Organisation (CSO) or an association of CSOs
- have existed for a minimum of one year and be able to present at least one annual report
- have had a turn-over of not more [Please refer to the national version of this document] than over the last budget year
- not have the financial, administrative or operational capacity to compete directly for EU funding under this DEAR call for proposals
- have at least 20 members/supporters/volunteers to ensure popular anchorage
- be established in [Please refer to the national version of this document] (Co-applicants may as well be established in all countries indicated in Annex: List of Eligible Countries and Territories).

- have the financial, administrative and/or operational capacity to successfully carry out the activities to be financed through the financial support.
- not have received funding from Connect for Global Change before (only relevant for the second round)
- not be an applicant or co-applicant in more than one application to Connect for Global Change.
- be neither coordinator, co-beneficiary, affiliated entity, associates, contractor nor beneficiary of a subgrant in the frame of the call for proposal under which the Connect for Global Change facility has been financed (Reference: EuropeAid/173998/DH/ACT/Multi), nor have the financial, administrative or operational capacity to compete directly for EU funding under this above call for proposals.
- be available to participate in capacity building activities on the following dates [please refer to the national version of this document] this entails in-person and online training, coaching and facilitation of peer-to-peer learning among the sub-grantees.
- not be in any of the exclusion criteria as defined in paragraph 2.6.10.1.1 of the INTPA Prag of 24th of June 2022

There will be equal access for all eligible civil society organisations regardless of membership of one of the Connect for Global Change partners.

Assessment criteria

In the assessment, the requirements are always aligned with the size of the grant applied for, the applicant's experience and what the Action seeks to achieve. In other words, the applications are assessed according to the same criteria regardless of the amount of the application, but the requirements for fulfilling the individual criteria increase with the amount.

Proposed actions will be assessed as a whole and whilst taking into account the track-record that the lead applicant and co-applicant have with the national Connect for Global Change partner.

Actions will be assessed upon the following six criteria:

1. Purpose and relevance of the action

To what extent:

- the action contributes to Empower, engage, and connect EU citizens, and in particular youth and those less sensitive to and less involved with global challenges, to take shared responsibility to create a more inclusive, equal, and sustainable world
- the action meaningfully engages the target group
- the action increases critical understanding within the target group

Weight 20 %

2. The knowledge and involvement of target groups of EU citizens

To what extent:

- the applicant demonstrates specific knowledge of the target group and its access to it
- the applicant includes the target group(s) in the development of the action
- the choice of channels and methods is relevant in relation to meaningfully engage the target group and create critical understanding
- the action reaches a target group defined as 'less sensitive' to the global challenges and/or the action reaches a target group defined as 'youth'
- the action will be able to motivate the target group(s) to become meaningfully engaged (move up in the engagement pyramid) and/or become critically aware of the issues presented by the action

Weight 20%

3. Southern Voices/Stakeholders

To what extent:

- the proposed action involves or engages people touched by the impact of the global challenges, as actors, narrators, participants and/or collaborators in a qualified and ethical sense and/or
- the proposed action involves stakeholders that are relevant to the proposed action

Weight 10%

4. Theory of Change

To what extent :

- the activities chosen are relevant and sufficient in order to create the change the proposed action seeks to achieve
- the activities chosen are relevant and sufficient in order to reach the chosen target group(s)
- the activities chosen are taking point of departure in the Engagement Pyramid, and to what extent they demonstrate how these activities move target group(s) from one level to the next in the pyramid
- the results of the proposed action are measurable
- the results of the proposed action are likely to be put into play even after the end of the action
- the action promotes gender equality through a gender-transformative, rights-based and intersectional approach.

Weight 20 %

5. Capacity

To what extent:

- the lead-applicant and co-applicant have the relevant capacity to implement the action related to the purpose, methods and target groups of the action
- the applying organisations have the necessary knowledge and experience to carry out the activities including communication skills and access to relevant channels for the target group
- the proposed action somehow relates to the aims, activities, mission and/or vision of the applying organisations(s)

Weight 10%

6. Cost effectiveness

To what extent:

- the action's cost level is reasonably related to activities, expected results, and the total budget
- the action's cost level is reasonably related to the number of EU citizens reached and engaged

Weight 20%

Procedure

Deadline for submission of your application is [please refer to the national version of this document].

Upon receipt your application will be registered and it will be assessed whether your application fulfils the eligibility criteria as stated in ‘Who can apply for a grant?’ and ‘What can you apply for?’. Please notice that the proposals must be submitted filling in the application form with all the required information and attachments. The attached documents shall contain ALL relevant information concerning the action and no additional annexes should be sent.

Any error and major inconsistency related to the application instruction and the documents required may lead to the rejection of the application. Incomplete applications may be rejected.

Upon submission of the full application, the lead applicants will receive a confirmation of receipt by the national Connect for Global Change partner. Lead applicants are strongly advised not to wait until the last day to submit their full applications, since heavy Internet traffic or a fault with the Internet connection could lead to difficulties in submission.

The national Connect for Global Change partner cannot be held responsible for any delay due to difficulties. Any application submitted after the deadline will be rejected. When during review it will occur that your application does not meet the eligibility criteria it will be administratively rejected. You will be informed about administrative rejection within [please refer to the national version of this document] after the deadline.

Applications that meet the eligibility criteria and are complete will be assessed as a whole upon the assessment criteria by independent assessment consultants. After assessment the assessment consultants pass their recommendation on to the grant committee. The grant committee considers the grant consultants' recommendation and makes the final decision and makes sure that the applications which are ranked highest will receive funding.

After this process has been finalised you will receive notice of the decision of the committee and information about the ranking of your application. This notice will be sent to you [please refer to the national version of this document].

If your application can be funded you will receive a draft grant contract within [please refer to the national version of this document] from the decision date to be signed by your legal representatives.

Learning cycle

Organisations who receive a grant will be part of a joint learning cycle together with other grant holders. The learning cycle consists of:

- A start-up seminar where grant holders share strategies and methodologies and identify joint training needs
- [please refer to the national version of this document] in-person trainings where the content is relevant to the purpose of Connect for Global Change (e.g. on constructive communication, use of southern voices or on the global challenges)
- [please refer to the national version of this document] on-line trainings where the content is relevant to the purpose of Connect for Global Change (e.g. on constructive communication, use of southern voices or on the global challenges)

- Expert coaching or peer coaching organised by the national Connect for Global Change partner with other grant holders
- End seminar where grant holders share experiences with other interested organisations and stakeholders
- And online cross border network event between similar grantees.

Participation in the full learning cycle is obligatory, but free of charge, with two participants per applicant and co-applicant per training.
