Iron Maiden

Piece of Mind

Following the band's chart-topping album «Number of The Beast», the pressure was on for Iron Maiden. However, their next release «Piece of Mind» in 1983 proved their ambition was unparalleled. Their 4th album was a critical and commercial success, reaching number three in the UK album charts and going platinum in the UK and North America. As a tribute to the 40th anniversary of «Piece of Mind», Eddie, Iron Maiden's mascot, is featured on three exceptional issues. On a 2-ounce silver, a half-gram gold and a 5-gram silver note, he fights his shackles as an imprisoned maniac.

Golden Highlights

Beer Mug

Mankind discovered its affection for fermented barley juice more than ten thousand years ago. Over the centuries, beer has experienced many changes in our relationship with it, from complete prohibition to its use as a means of payment. One thing we can all agree on though, a fine beer after a strenuous hike, after mowing the lawn, at a barbecue with friends or even after junior's noisy birthday party is well worth enjoying.

Billiards

Billiards has been played by kings and commoners, presidents, ladies, gentlemen, and hustlers alike. Evolving most likely from a lawn game similar to croquet, the earliest references to the game in Europe date back to the 15th century. Today, anyone thinking of billiards inevitably associates it with the image of a dark wooden pub, dim lighting and cigarette smoke - a cliché that ought to have been outdated by now. After all, it is not only a professional sport, but also a leisure activity enjoyed by millions of people of all ages around the world.

Golden Highlights

Crown

In classic antiquity, crowns served as a reward for prowess and a sign of honour and dominion. Athletes, poets, and successful warriors were awarded crown-like wreaths of different forms whereas chiefs of barbarian tribes customarily wore distinctive helmets. In the earliest English coronation ritual, dating back more than 1000 years, the king was invested with a helmet instead of a crown. Today, crowns continue to be part of the court ceremony in certain countries and enchant many a spectator.

As one of the six military services, its members have fulfilled their unique duty as both a security and humanitarian force protecting America in domestic and international waters for over 100 years. While it is involved in all aspects of enforcing U.S. law and trade on high seas, the United States Coast Guard is best known for its daring search and rescue operations including medical evacuations, downed aviators, sinking vessels, floods and hurricanes. Numismatic Icons

Arethusa

For the 4th issue of the series, we get acquainted with Arethusa. A captivating nymph and companion to the moon goddess Artemis in Greek mythology. According to legend, she unknowingly bathed in a river belonging to the river god Alpheus, whom she inadvertently seduced with her beauty. Arethusa, wanting nothing of his advances, fled her home in Arcadia. Relentlessly pursued by Alpheus, she sought help from Artemis. The latter transformed the nymph into a stream under the sea, which emerges as a water fountain on the island of Ortygia in Syracuse, Sicily. The Syracusan coins with Arethusa's image are said to be among the most stunning of ancient Greece and regularly achieve record prices at auctions. In honour of the ravishing beauty, we proudly unveil three exciting releases – a 1-ounce silver coin, 1-ounce gold coin, and a half-gram gold Proof coin.

Lunar Year Collection

Great Silver Dragon

Lunar Year issues are ever so popular among collectors, and CIT's Mongolian issues have become annual favourites. The 2024 issue, featuring the «Year of the Dragon», celebrates the 8th anniversary of the series. In Chinese mythology, dragons are majestic beasts that dwell in rivers, lakes, oceans and roam the skies. Originally a rain deity, the Chinese dragon is associated with heavenly beneficence and fertility. Like in past years, there will be three distinct and highly collectible releases – a unique 1-ounce silver coin, a five-gram silver banknote, and a half-gram gold Proof coin.

One Noble

The Noble coins have been issued by the Isle of Man since the early 1980s. Despite their world-wide popularity, they have not been minted every year. This adds to the appeal of the coins, as earlier issues are difficult to acquire. For the 2022 issue, we were privileged to further develop the Noble, updating it with its first change to the original design since its introduction in 1983. Due to the enthusiastic response of our customers to last year's edition, we now present the 2023 release in splendid proof with the portrait of King Charles on the obverse.

Vault

Vaults are an integral part of the building in which they are located, with armoured walls and a door secured with complex locks, they hold the items we find most precious. Historically, vaults were built in the basements of banks where the ceilings were vaulted, hence the name. Nowadays they are also common in other buildings where valuables are kept, such as post offices, grand hotels, rare book libraries and certain government ministries. During its beginnings, vault technology evolved into an arms race with bank robbers. While crafty burglars kept finding new ways to break into vaults, the manufacturers of them came up with innovative solutions to prevent them from doing so. What would you keep in your vault?

hazel brown

With the 2nd issue of the series, we dive anew into the captivating colour of the human eye. Whereas brown and even blue eyes are relatively common, hazel is of rarity. Not confined to a single hue and sparkling in a vibrant and beautiful palette of colours from green to blue to dark brown, hazel eyes show up in roughly only 10% of the world's population.

First Ascent

Mount Everest

The world's highest mountain had remained unknown to western society until 1852, when surveyors discovered it during the charting of India. Identified as the highest mountain in the world, Mt. Everest became a subject of interest during the golden age of alpinism and thereafter. Prior to the British Mount Everest expedition of 1953, roughly 10 expeditions had failed on the mountain since 1921. The incredible triumph of the successful first ascent of Mt. Everest is claimed by Tenzing Norgay and Edmund Hillary, who reached the world's highest peak on May 29, 1953. We are delighted to honour this extraordinary achievement by the world-renowned alpinists with two superb silver coins – a 2-ounce silver release and a stunning 1-kilo silver edition.
