Peacock

Whether as a child or as an adult. Looking at a peacock is always a very special moment. Especially when it unfurls its colorful plumage. This is exactly what this coin captures in an artistic way. The central design element is the visually stunning pattern of eye-like spots staring back at you. A special effect is also created by the combination of ultra-high relief and a newly developed prisma plating technique: a proof finish that has never been seen before in this form and that makes each coin unique.

The seven deadly sins originated in early Christianity and were first formulated in the 4th century. However, it was not until the 13th century that the important theologian and philosopher Thomas Aquinas integrated them into Catholic moral teaching. The seven deadly sins are: Pride, Avarice, Lust, Wrath, Gluttony, Envy and Sloth. They are not regarded as concrete actions, but as inner attitudes or vices that distance people from God and can lead to serious sin.

The first issue of the series takes up the topic of wrath and presents it in a rather unconventional way. We abandon the traditional, rather martial symbolism and choose animals that best represent the respective mortal sin. A possible surprise effect is definitely intentional! We start with a classic and colored coin that shows an angry bull running towards the viewer. Not a moment you would like to experience in reality. Wrath 2.0!

Rhino

This is already the 5th issue in this successful series. The latest issue once again shows an impressive animal that is one of the Big 5 and virtually explodes on this coin. The species depicted is a white rhinoceros, which can be recognized by the two horns. This species is the largest rhinoceros species alive today and lives mainly in the savannahs and grasslands of Africa. An adult specimen can grow up to four meters long and weigh around 1.8 tons. It is a herbivore and feeds almost exclusively on grass. Unlike many other rhino species, it is relatively sociable and often lives in small groups. Due to intensive poaching, particularly for its horns, the white rhino is highly endangered.

Thanks to smartminting® technology, the rhino appears very realistic. Just look at the small but fine eye. The shards even reach the edge of the coin. In addition, some of them are either polished or dark textured, which gives an even better idea of the rhino's original appearance.

Wild Gilded Horse

Lunar Year coins are very popular with collectors, and the annual CIT issues have become absolute favorites. 2026 is the year of the horse. Horses have played a crucial role in the history of mankind and symbolize strength, freedom and endurance in all cultures. In Chinese tradition, those born under this sign are known for their energy, intelligence and unwavering determination. The horse is also associated with success and adventure, making it a popular symbol in the zodiac. As in previous years, we are expanding the existing collection with a gold-plated version of the three-dimensionally shaped, free-standing 1 ounce silver coin.

Brutus vs. Caesar

This series on historical rivalries begins with the conflict between Caesar and Brutus, highlighting the tension between loyalty to individuals and principles. The Enemies in History: Caesar vs. Brutus coin commemorates the Ides of March, symbolizing Caesar's assassination and the themes of freedom and betrayal. The coin design features Caesar in a splendid armor and Brutus in a Roman toga, reflecting moral conflict and guilt. A grayscale finish adds depth, portraying them as both heroes and betrayers. Twenty-three notches on the edge symbolize Caesar's stab wounds, intertwined with lines representing betrayal. A central dagger design signifies separation and violence. The obverse side displays Caesar on horseback in armor, highlighting his proud yet tragic fate. This limited edition 2 oz silver coin uses smartminting® technology to create a dramatic narrative about power and betrayal, appealing to historians and collectors, with only 500 pieces available worldwide.

Aviation

Steampunk is and remains a cultural phenomenon. This subculture of science fiction, which affects everything from movies to fashion, has grown in popularity and influence since it was first mentioned in the 1980s. Loosely defined, it is about how people in the Victorian era, 200 years ago, imagined the future of today. This is the sixth and final edition of the successful series. As always, the combination of ultra-high relief in an antique finish with partially gold-plated elements is a particularly distinctive feature.

This time we are focusing on aviation and the various means of transportation that seemed possible with the means available at the time. However, our designer has come up with something very special and incorporated 5 clues into the design that refer to the previous editions. Have fun discovering them!

Portal of Time

Stories about time travel have fascinated people for centuries. The first examples can be found as early as the 19th century, such as H.G. Wells' "The Time Machine" (1895), which is considered a classic of the genre. Time travel is often used to comment on social developments, relive historical events or create alternative future scenarios.

This coin takes up the theme in a futuristic way. It shows a portal that was lost in the desert and has now been uncovered. Thanks to smartminting® technology and special coloring, you can guess how old this entrance must be. What would you use a time machine for? To travel back in time and prevent wars, for example, and thus influence the course of history? Or would you rather look into the future? The decision is entirely up to you.

Dunescape

CIT is known for unusual and sometimes abstract designs in combination with new techniques. This coin goes one step further. What at first glance appears to be an abstract wave shape turns out to be a desert landscape on closer inspection. Anyone who has ever had the opportunity to experience such a place will be familiar with the fascinating play of colors and the bizarre sand shapes created by the wind. This is exactly what this rose gold plated silver coin shows in an impressive way. Can you spot the traveler with his three camels among the dunes? The shadow of the animals shows that it is time to reach the destination before the night shrouds this scenario in darkness again.

What is the first thing that comes to mind when you think of Italy? Pasta? Beaches? Art? Or perhaps the boot shape that makes Italy so unique geographically? We combined smartminting® technology with this theme to create a breathtaking coin featuring the iconic "boot" shape of the Italian peninsula in ultra-high and ultra-deep relief. The Alps, hills, and coastal landscapes are rendered in striking detail, while the surrounding ocean is sculpted with wave-like surfaces and textured, matte areas for depth. This interplay of high and low relief produces a spectacular 3D effect, celebrating Italy's connection to the Mediterranean. The national flag appears partially colored beneath the waterline, and glossy, matte, and colored elements – such as golden coastlines and soft blue water – add contrast and bring the design vividly to life. For collectors and lovers of Italy, this 2 oz silver coin with a mirror finish is not just a souvenir, but a real journey through Italian geography and culture. But don't wait too long. This coin is limited to only 750 pieces worldwide.

Machu Picchu

In this issue, we discover the next place on our bucket list. Machu Picchu is a famous Inca ruined city in the Andes of Peru. It was built in the 15th century under the Inca ruler Pachacútec and lies at an altitude of around 2430 meters. At that time, the Inca Empire stretched from present-day Ecuador to Chile and was therefore as long as the United States is wide today. As the Incas had no written language, the answer remains a mystery to this day. The site is known for its impressive architecture, its terraced buildings and its harmonious integration into the surrounding mountain landscape. No mortar was used in the construction of the buildings. Instead, the individual stones were placed with absolute precision. This allowed them to move even in the event of an earthquake and prevented major damage. This is one of the reasons why the buildings have survived so well to this day. Abandoned after 100 years, it remained hidden until rediscovered by Hiram Bingham in 1911. Today it is an Unesco World Heritage Site and a top tourist destination. Thanks to smartminting® 4.0 and a sophisticated design, you can now hold a miniature Machu Picchu in your hands and immerse yourself in history.

Yellowstone

The success story of this series continues. The latest edition takes us to Yellowstone National Park. It is the oldest national park in the world and was founded in the USA in 1872. It is mainly located in the state of Wyoming. With an area of around 9000 km², it is larger than Corsica or Cyprus and is known for its impressive nature that includes geysers, hot springs, waterfalls and a diverse animal world with bison, wolves and grizzly bears. The park is located on a huge super volcano, whose geothermal activity shapes the landscape. As an Unesco World Heritage Site, Yellowstone plays an important role in nature conservation and attracts millions of visitors every year.

As with its predecessors and with the help of the smartminting® technique, this exceptional coin shows a faithful detail of the park in ultra deep relief. The impressive coloration depicts the rough and natural geology very realistically and brings Yellowstone Lake to life.
