Lewis had a pet bluebird called June. One afternoon, June began to act a little foolish. First, she flew into Mum's bedroom, did a loop the loop and blew over some glue. Then, June began to swoop at a pooch named Prue, which made Prue scoot away. Next, she began to peck and chew on a prune that Lewis had on his spoon. Lewis could not get June because she flew round and round like a corkscrew.

"June, you are a very rude bluebird today!" he said. Soon, Lewis came up with a shrewd plan. He threw some cashew nuts into June's coop because they were her best treat. June flew to the cashews and Lewis shut the coop.

"It is time to cool off June," said Lewis in a soothing way, "and it is time for me to have a brew!"
