Ben, Sam and Ankit planned to take buses to get around Kanpur and see the sights. “First stop is the Shri Radhakrishna Temple,” said Ankit. “It is where Hindus can come and worship. There are shrines to different gods. We can come and give thanks and ask the gods to help us.”

Before they went inside, they had to take off their shoes. Once they were in, they were astounded by the beautiful carvings. “Wow, I have never seen anything like this,” whispered Ben as they left. “It is lovely!”

Ben, Sam and Ankit were hungry. “There is a stall selling delicious samosas outside. Let’s go and get one,” said Ankit. Ben and Sam looked confused. “Trust me. They are yummy!” said Ankit. And they were. “I don’t usually like spicy food,” laughed Sam, “but I like these!”

“Let’s make a list of all of the things that we brought with us and anything we have bought or seen so far. That way, we will not forget,” suggests Sam.

“Good plan,” says Ben. “You say them and I’ll write them down.”

Along with Ben, can you write down what Sam says?

Mahatma Gandhi Park

Ankit decides to take Ben and Sam to Mahatma Gandhi Park next. He tells them all about what they will see. Can you fill in the missing words from the sentences?

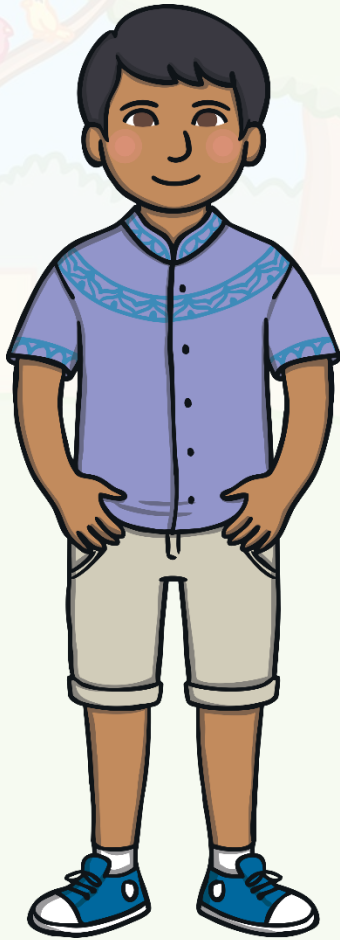

If you finish, why not write a sentence of your own?

This is a great whiteboard activity.

You will see lots of birds.

If you have your sunhats,
we can sunbathe.

If one of your wishes is to play football, we can do that.

There are lots of buses home from the park.

Ben, Sam and Ankit had a lovely walk around the Mahatma Gandhi Park. Sam saw lots of different birds and they all played a game of football together. "You two must be tired," said Ankit. "One of your wishes was to play with baby Diya, so I think we should go home."

Sentence Time

When they get home, they see that the adults have given lots of presents to baby Diya, but what is she more interested in? Look at the picture, then write a sentence to match.

Diya plays with the boxes and not with the presents!

“You know, I went to that school a very long time ago,” sighed Grandpa Dada about his school.

“Oo, what was it like when you were there?” pleaded Ankit.
“Well,” said Grandpa Dada, scratching his head and thinking.

“It was a very good school and I was always happy there. But it was very strict!”
“Please, tell us more!” begged Ben.

Today, we have learnt...
