The Jurassic Period

Let's practise Sam's Sounds and Sight Words!

Today, we are learning to read words that contain ow saying /oa/.

Watch out for any 'ow' words which make the sound /ow/ as in 'cow'. The 'ow' grapheme can make the /ow/ or the /oa/ sound.

“We are here!” said an excited Ben to Sam. Just then, in the distance, Ben and Sam could see some very large reptiles following one reptile in front. “Are they...” Sam said, pointing in the direction of the creatures, “...like Steg? Is that a Stegosaurus?”

An illustration of a prehistoric landscape. In the foreground, two children are looking at a large green Stegosaurus dinosaur with orange bony plates along its back and tail. The dinosaur is eating green leafy plants. In the background, there are blue mountains, a purple volcano with grey smoke rising from it, and a yellow sky with white clouds. The scene is framed by green trees and vines.

In the distance, they could see more than one Stegosaurus. They were huge! They appeared to be about nine metres long and about three metres tall. Two rows of bony plates ran along their back and tail. The dinosaurs were busy munching on some leafy plants growing low to the ground.

Ben was so excited to see real-life dinosaurs, just like Steg! He could not believe how big they were. He was amazed at how many leaves they were eating. “Look at how quickly they are eating those leaves!” exclaimed Ben.

Spelling ow Words

There are lots of trees in the forest. Look at the picture on the tree.
Unscramble the letters to spell the word. How is the word spelt?

This is a great whiteboard activity!

Ben and Sam stood very still, watching these great dinosaurs eat plants from the ground. As the dinosaurs were slowly moving in Ben and Sam's direction, Sam became worried.

Sam thought about what Ben had just said and felt relieved. She already knew that a Stegosaurus was a herbivore but had got caught up in the moment. “Phew!” sighed Sam, looking less worried.

“I think we should walk a bit further through the forest because we might see some more dinosaurs,” said Ben. Ben and Sam started to walk. What will they see next?

Today, we have learnt...
