

Superheroes to the Rescue

Let's practise reading all of this week's focus words.

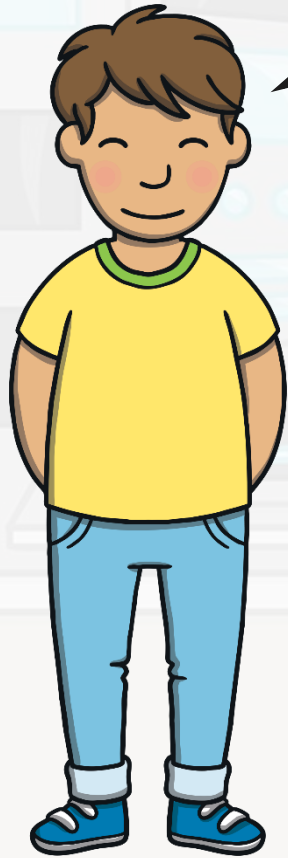

flies carries

spies hurries autumn

babies replies gone

teddies cries

Now, let's write them on a whiteboard or paper.

teddies cries

Today, we are learning to read and write sentences with words containing the -es suffix.

Kit and Sam found themselves back in the garden after their adventure to Super Headquarters.

Where had Kit and Sam been to?

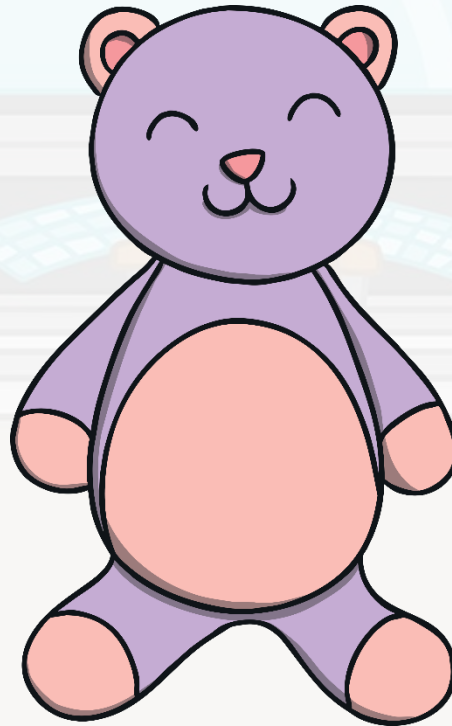

“It was so fantastic having superpowers!” said Kit.
“That villain was a bit scary though,” said Sam. “I’m glad we managed to capture him!”

Kit and Sam ran to their bedrooms to check on their own teddies. "I'm glad we managed to return all of the stolen teddies too!" said Kit.

“Shall we write down our adventure so we don’t forget what happened?” said Kit.

“Great idea!” said Sam.

Superheroes to the Rescue

A 'Let's Write Together!' Book

It was the weekend and Kit and Sam were playing one of their favourite activities! They were being superheroes in the garden with their capes and masks on.

Show Suggestion

They used their magic map to take them to Superhero Headquarters but there was no one there. Then, Kit saw a message appear on a big screen.

Show Suggestion

The message told them that there were babies crying because their teddies had been taken and anyone who wanted to help would need to be able to fly.

The sound of babies and their cries is in the air,
Whoever tries to help must fly across the skies
to get there.

Anyone who hurries might just save those teddies.

But be careful; I have my spies everywhere.

Show Suggestion

Kit and Sam found some masks and capes in Superhero Headquarters. When they put them on, they found that they could fly and had x-ray sight!

Show Suggestion

Kit and Sam flew as fast as they could and found the missing superheroes tied up in a school. They were on top of a big pile of teddies but it was a trap!

Kit got the villain in a net. The superheroes and teddies were saved! Hooray! They took the teddies back to the babies and then everyone had a big party.

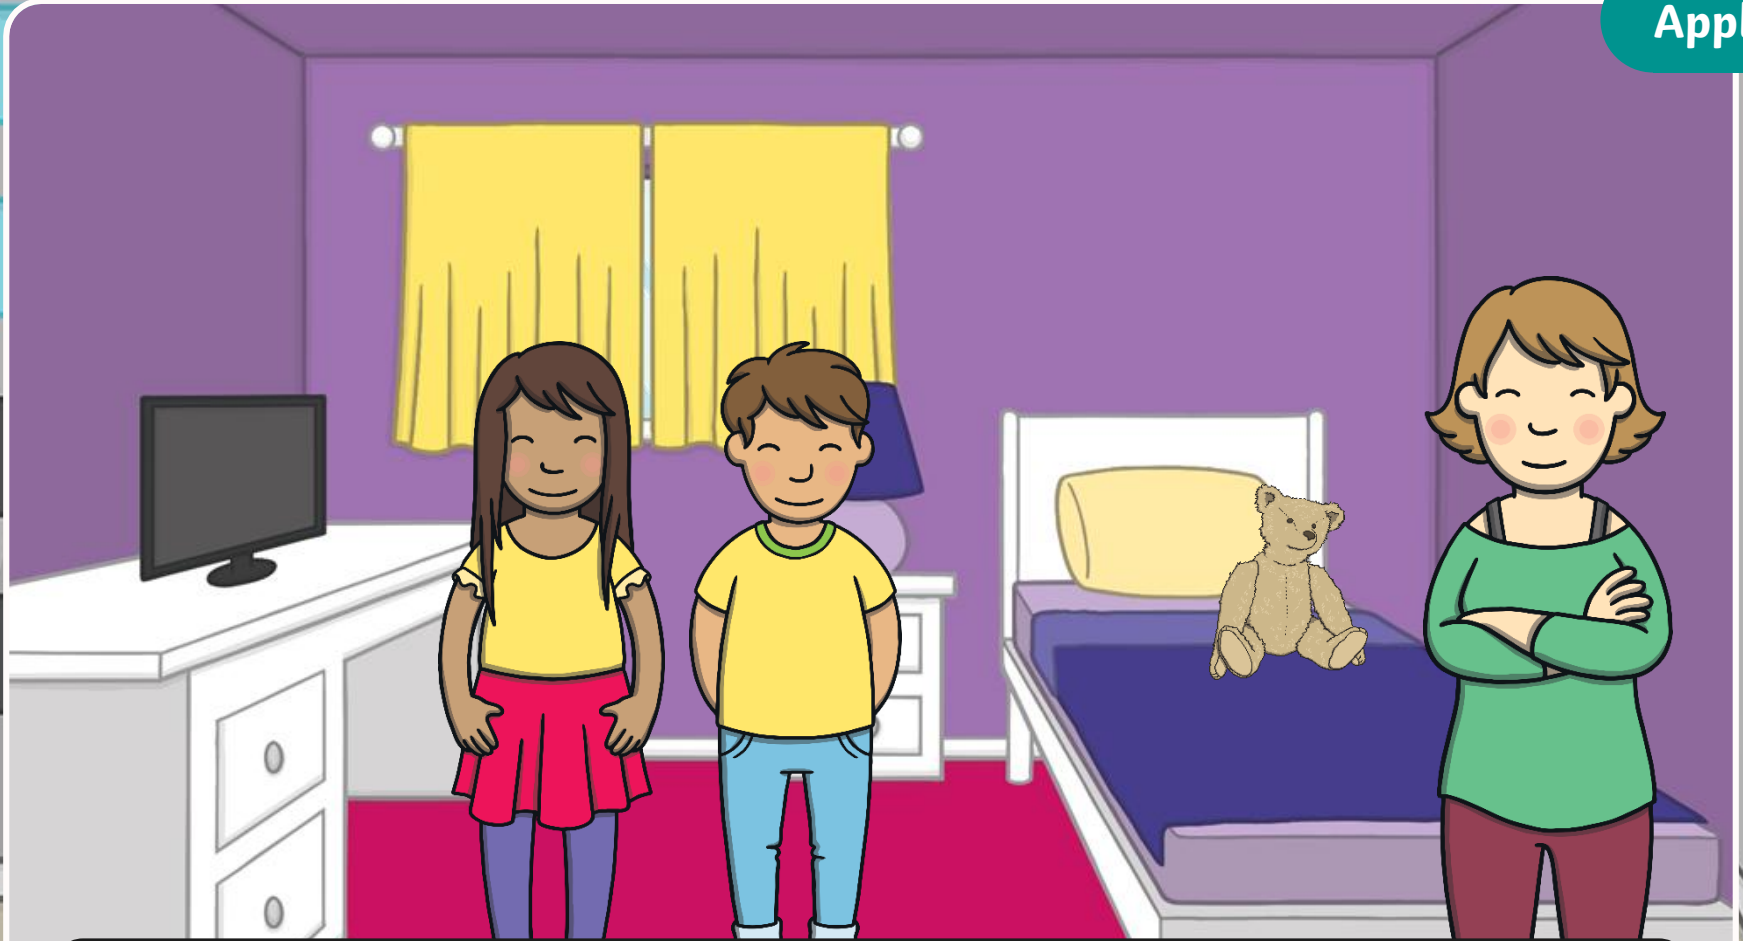

Show Suggestion

As they got to the end of their book, Mum came upstairs and saw an old teddy that was hers when she was a baby. "What's this old thing doing here?" she mumbled.

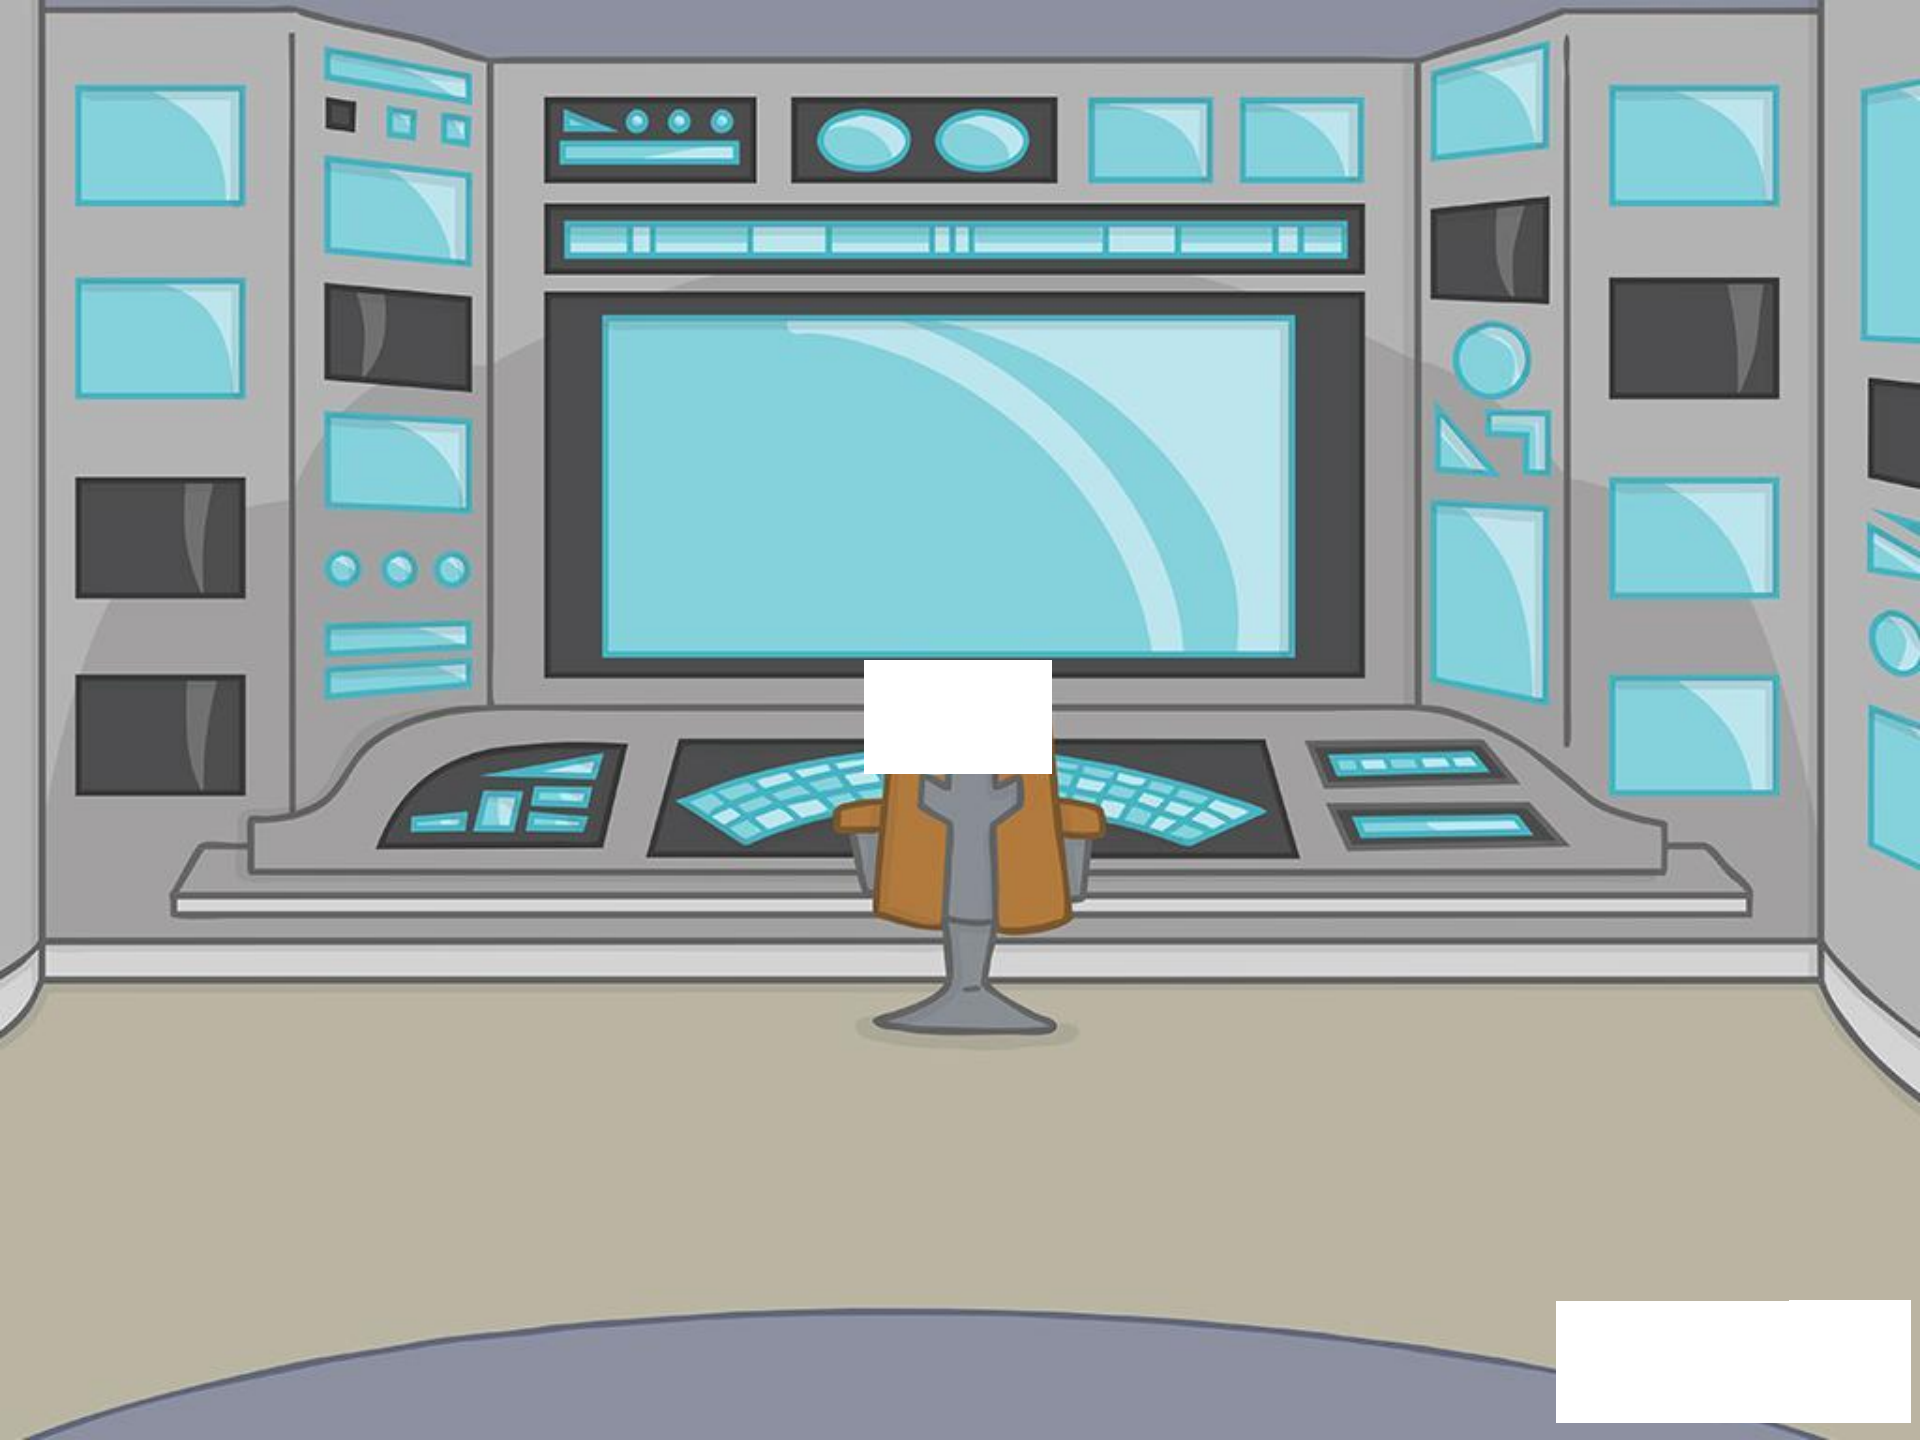

“Are you OK, Mum?” asked Kit.

“Yes, I was just wondering where this teddy had appeared from. It was mine when I was a baby!”

Kit and Sam looked at each other and smiled.

Today, we have written sentences with words containing the -es suffix.
