Q5: Why did the gnome want to make a sign?

Q6: What do you think the sign said?

As Kit and Sam were pruning the shrubs, they found an underground tunnel with a sign. They used the magic map to shrink so they could follow the tunnel.

Kit and Sam had a visitor in school. He was a park-keeper. He was helping the class to tidy the school wildlife area. Suddenly, a cloud of gnats appeared.

Q1: What were Kit and Sam doing in the wildlife area?

Q2: What might Kit and Sam find in the tunnel?

Q7: What do you think will happen next?

While Kit and Sam had been gone, the gnome had been busy designing and making a sign to help the rabbits. The sign told the gnats to keep away so the babies could play.

“We know the way!” said Kit and Sam and they raced back down the winding tunnels to the gnome’s home. As they got there, the baby rabbit was just waking up. “My baby!” said Mrs Rabbit as she hugged him tight.

The sign led to the gnome’s home. The gnome had found a lost baby rabbit and wanted to get a letter to its mum. The kitten had got lost because there were too many gnats to play outside.

Kit and Sam wanted to help. They went along the tunnel to deliver the letter. There were gnarled roots, and signs that had been gnawed by rabbits.

Q3: What did the gnome want to be delivered to Mrs Rabbit?

Q4: How do you think Mrs Rabbit was feeling?
