

Poetry: Using Onomatopoeia

Onomatopoeia is when a word imitates its natural sound, or suggests the sound a certain object makes.

It is used in poetry to create a sound effect to make the description more expressive and interesting.

Some examples of onomatopoeia:

bang

buzz

crash

tick tock

pop

whoosh

smash

wham

drip

pow

