

'has' or 'have'?

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are has and have.

1. Can you write the correct present form of 'to have' in these singular and plural sentences?

- a. Jose _____ two pet parrots.
- b. The company _____ twenty members of staff.
- c. I _____ a badly-broken arm.
- d. The rabbits _____ a new hutch in the garden.
- e. Jonathan _____ fantastic football skills.

2. Can you add the correct form of the verb 'to have' when it is used as an auxiliary verb before extending these sentences?

- a. I _____ peeled the potatoes so _____.
- b. The fisherman _____ caught a huge haul of fish as _____
_____.
- c. The dog _____ a very sore paw because _____
_____.

3) Can you rewrite the text message correctly?

Hi Dad, I has missed my bus because Ben have hurt his leg at football training. We has helped him to bandage it up so I'll be home soon, Fred x

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

'has' or 'have'? Answers

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are has and have.

- Can you write the correct present form of 'to have' in these singular and plural sentences?
  - Jose has two pet parrots.
  - The company has twenty members of staff.
  - I have a badly-broken arm.
  - The rabbits have a new hutch in the garden.
  - Jonathan has fantastic football skills.
- Can you add the correct form of the verb 'to have' when it is used as an auxiliary verb before extending these sentences?
  - I have peeled the potatoes so ... accept any sensible ideas. .
  - The fisherman has caught a huge haul of fish as ... accept any sensible ideas. .
  - The dog has a very sore paw because ... accept any sensible ideas. .
- Can you rewrite the text message correctly?

Hi Dad, I have missed my bus because Ben has hurt his leg at football training. We have helped him to bandage it up so I'll be home soon, Fred x

'has' or 'have'?

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are has and have.

1. Can you write the correct present form of 'to have' in these singular and plural sentences?

- We _____ an exciting holiday to France in August.
- Did you know that you _____ a rip in your shorts?
- Samantha _____ a cold and isn't feeling well today.
- Before we go to school, we _____ to pack our bags.
- The lions at Frampton Zoo _____ a new enclosure.

2. a. Can you write a sentence where you use 'have' as a main verb?

---

---

b. Can you write a sentence where you use 'has' as a main verb?

---

---

3. Fill in the missing present form of 'to have' in the text messages below.

Hi Dad. I _____ missed my bus because Ben _____ hurt his leg at football training. We _____ helped him to bandage it up so I'll be home soon, Fred.

Sarah, what time will you be home? Dad _____ just put the dinner in the oven. Let me know if you _____ made other plans and we will _____ dinner by ourselves, love Mum.

Tabatha _____ lost her keys. Do you _____ a spare set? If you _____, can you leave them under the flowerpot for us please? We _____ got ten minutes until the train leaves. See you soon.

'has' or 'have'? Answers

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are has and have.

1. Can you write the correct present form of 'to have' in these singular and plural sentences?

- a. We have an exciting holiday to France in August.
- b. Did you know that you have a rip in your shorts?
- c. Samantha has a cold and isn't feeling well today.
- d. Before we go to school, we have to pack our bags.
- e. The lions at Frampton Zoo have a new enclosure.

2. a. Can you write a sentence where you use 'have' as a main verb?

Accept any sentence where 'have' is used in its correct form.

b. Can you write a sentence where you use 'has' as a main verb?

Accept any sentence where 'has' is used in its correct form.

3. Fill in the missing present form of 'to have' in the text messages below.

Hi Dad. I have missed my bus because Ben has hurt his leg at football training. We have helped him to bandage it up so I'll be home soon, Fred.

Sarah, what time will you be home? Dad has just put the dinner in the oven. Let me know if you have made other plans and we will have dinner by ourselves, love Mum.

Tabatha has lost her keys. Do you have a spare set? If you have, can you leave them under the flowerpot for us please? We have got ten minutes until the train leaves. See you soon.

'has' or 'have'?

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are _____ and _____.

1. Can you write TWO sentences where you use 'has' as a main verb?

a. _____

_____

b. _____

_____

2. Can you write TWO sentences where you use 'have' as a main verb?

a. _____

_____

b. _____

_____

3. Can you add a subject and extend these sentences where 'has' or 'have' have been used as auxiliary verbs?

a. _____ has failed her driving test because _____

_____

b. _____ have bought lots of party food for their party as _____

_____

4. Can you rewrite the text message correctly?

Hi Grandma, I has not been around today because I has a really bad cold. I would has hated for you to has caught it from me. I think Susie have given it me as she was ill last week which caused her to has a day off school. Anyway, I has asked Dad to drop me at your house on Thursday if I has recovered. See u soon, Darcie x

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

_____

'has' or 'have'? Answers

I can use the different present tense forms of the verb 'to have'.

The present tense forms of the verb 'to have' are has and have.

1. Can you write TWO sentences where you use 'has' as a main verb?
  - a. Accept any sentences where 'has' is used in its correct form.
  - b.
2. Can you write TWO sentences where you use 'have' as a main verb?
  - a. Accept any sentences where 'have' is used in its correct form.
  - b.
3. Can you add a subject and extend these sentences where 'has' or 'have' have been used as auxiliary verbs?
  - a. Accept 'she' or any appropriate female name has failed her driving test because ...
Accept any sensible sentence idea.
  - b. Accept 'they' or any combination of two or more names have bought lots of party food for their party as ... Accept any sensible sentence idea.
4. Can you rewrite the text message correctly?

Hi Grandma, I have not been around today because I have a really bad cold. I would have hated for you to have caught it from me. I think Susie has given it to me as she was ill last week which caused her to have a day off school. Anyway, I have asked Dad to drop me at your house on Thursday if I have recovered. See you soon, Darcie x