

Amulius was right.

He was a strong king.
He managed to fight
Numitor and win.
Alba Longa needed
a strong king.

Amulius was right.

Rhea Silvia broke her vows which shows that her family weren't trustworthy.

Amulius was right.

Romulus and Remus
killed Amulius in a fight which shows that they had bad tempers so shouldn't be kings.

Amulius was right.

Romulus and Remus
were twins so how would they choose who would be king?

Romulus and Remus were right.

Amulius forced his niece to become a Vestal Virgin so she couldn't get married or have children.

Romulus and Remus were right.

They were the sons of a god so would make good kings.

Romulus and Remus were right.

Amulius killed his own brother and nephews which shows how bad he was.

Romulus and Remus were right.

Romulus and Remus killed Amulius in a fight which shows that they were brave and strong which is what Alba Longa needed.

