Rewrite this passage, which contains several Y5/Y6 statutory spelling words, in your most fluent and speedy joined style:

Amy would have always described herself as mischievous but this time it was quickly becoming apparent to her that she had gone too far. This time, she was finding it hard to live with her guilty conscience. When she had tinkered with the equipment before the school sports day competition, she didn't bargain on causing such chaos! Now there was a queue of angry children, parents and teachers wanting an explanation as to why there were banana skins on the running track, holes cut in the bottom of the sack race sacks and glue attached to the head teacher's chair. Amy hadn't meant to be a nuisance or to embarrass anyone, especially not her friends. But now the head teacher had pulled a muscle trying to get unstuck, she was surely going to have detention for years to come!

Hush, little baby, don't say a word.
Daddy's gonna buy you a mockingbird.

And if that mockingbird won't sing,
Daddy's gonna buy you a diamond ring.

And if that diamond ring turns brass,
Daddy's gonna buy you a looking glass.

And if that looking glass gets broke,
Daddy's gonna buy you a billy goat.

And if that billy goat won't pull,
Daddy's gonna buy you a cart and bull.

And if that cart and bull turn over,
Daddy's gonna buy you a dog named Rover.

And if that dog named Rover won't bark,
Daddy's gonna buy you a horse and cart.

And if that horse and cart fall down,
You'll still be the sweetest little baby in town.

Two Little Kittens

Two little kittens, one stormy night,
Began to quarrel, and then to fight;
One had a mouse, the other had none,
And that's the way the quarrel begun.

"I'll have that mouse," said the biggest cat;
"You'll have that mouse? We'll see about that!"
"I will have that mouse," said the eldest son;
"You shan't have the mouse," said the little one.

I told you before 'twas a stormy night
When these two little kittens began to fight;
The old woman seized her sweeping broom,
And swept the two kittens right out of the room.
